The World Question.
His Heart Cut Out.
To Live 100 Years.
Who Understands Money?

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE WORLD question is:

"What is Germany's condition?"

The second question:

"What would happen to the world if German industry and finance should collapse?"

That probably will not happen, although German effort to borrow $500,000,000, to bolster the Reichsbank, shows how difficult the situation is, even after President Hoover's energetic action temporarily stopping payments under the Young plan.

YOU REMEMBER, perhaps, that this column has often advised against buying foreign bonds, indiscriminately; an investment nearer home is safer in such times as these.

Some, that preferred foreign investment, tempted by higher interest rates, or glowing salesmanship circulars, will realize, presently, if they have not done so already, that the warning given here was needed.

THOSE THAT know anything about finance have known for years that Germany could not fulfil the terms of the Young plan. Germany knew she could not possibly live up to the terms of the plan, on the very day that she signed.

What Germany wanted, was to get rid of foreign soldiers, French, English, and some of ours, holding possession of German soil, at German expense. She would have signed anything to get rid of them, she did sign, and got rid of them. Now she gets rid of the Young plan.

COTTON DROPPED $1.50 a bale yesterday. Wheat went to a new low price. Senator Capper wants to know how farmers can afford to pay higher freight rates, in case the Interstate Commerce Commission consents to them.

Wall street yesterday was like the old Canadian lady, who used often to say:

"I tell my husband I don't know what to tell him."

Wall street didn't know what to tell itself yesterday

ANOTHER RACKETEER killing in New York City emphasizes, horribly, the brutality and bitter hatred that inspire these killings. Carmello Liconti, racketeer connected with the Brooklyn barbers' and longshoremen's unions, was the victim. His throat had been slashed, the head almost severed from the body, and his heart had actually been cut out.

Human nature develops hideously, when contempt for law becomes universal, as it has done recently in the United States, when officials supposed to enforce the law share the profits of law-breakers, and fear of punishment is removed.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER says he hopes to live 100 years and his fellow citizens hope that he will. He has rendered one great service, proving the foolishness of unrestricted competition, the most wasteful thing in the world.

And, having accumulated hundreds of millions, he spends them usefully for science and education. The people would like to see him live to 1,000 YEARS, except that it would not amuse him.

LUIGI CORNARO'S career proves that men, to some extent, can control their length of life. Told by doctors at 40 that he had only a short time to live, he said he would see about that, and did.

He experimented carefully with his diet, and wrote his book, Discorsi Sulla Vita Sobria, when he was 92 years old, mounted his horse without help for a daily ride when past 90. He wrote to the archbishop:

"I had to live to be 90 to learn that the world was beautiful."

He died at the age of 98.

He took 12 ounces of solid food, and 15 ounces of light Italian wine every day. Mr. Rockefeller omits the wine.

THE WORLD'S different money situations are strange. Germany begs for credit, to keep her industries alive. We respond with $100,000,000, which isn't difficult, for we have so much money we don't know what to do with it.

In Wall street yesterday, money lent as low as one-half of 1 per cent a year, on first-class acceptances. Stock exchange loans were at 1½ per cent, private bankers lent at 1 per cent.

Who understands finance? NOBODY.

SENATOR BORAH tells Collier's Weekly, out today, that canceling war debts is dangerous—"the sums belong to the American taxpayer." And if these debts are canceled, Senator Borah says there must be "some reasonable assurance that American taxpayers will enjoy some economic advantage."

The Senator is also afraid that money saved by Europe will be invested in war, also that our private citizens may lose some of the seventeen billion dollars that they have lent privately to Europe.

THAT IS a case of the horse and the barn door. Americans may lose many of the seventeen billions lent to Europe, and the money we are not going to get from war loans will probably be spent largely for war preparations.

As for "economic advantages," the advantage of Europe is the question of the moment, not that of the United States.

DOAK CALLS MINE UNION LEADERS

Parley With Men Follows Failure of Operators to Agree; 'Reds' Ignored

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and other union officials, today were summoned to Washington next Monday for a conference with Secretary of Labor Doak and Secretary of Commerce Lamont, regarding conditions in the bituminous coal fields.

This action is believed to have been prompted by President Hoover in another attempt to find a solution of the problems confronting the soft coal industry, following the failure of operators to agree on any concrete proposal after a four-hour conference with Secretaries Lamont and Doak.

After that conference Lamont issued a statement saying:

"Many of the operators held the view that little could be accomplished of advantage to the public, the industry or the workers engaged in it by summoning a national coal conference at this time."

It was learned that representatives of the National Miners' Union, the so-called left-wing group, would not be invited to Monday's conference because they are opposed to any conference between operators and miners.

U. S. Parley to Aid Coal Trade Fails

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Efforts of the federal government to adjust differences between the bituminous coal mine operators and workers will be abandoned, it was indicated today following the conference yesterday between representatives of the operators

RUM RACKETEER GETS PARDON

The Pardon Board today commuted the sentence of Tony Dell, 27, of the Boulevard of the Allies, arrested at Allen's drug store, Noble street, Swissvale, during an investigation of an alleged liquor ring that preyed on druggists in the East Boroughs section in 1929.

Dell was sentenced to five to 10 years in the Western Penitentiary for stealing liquor and wines from the drug stores of Sam Hollander, 914 Braddock avenue, Braddock, and Howard I. Miller, 600 Braddock avenue, Braddock.

Lodged in the Rankin police station after his arrest, Dell, police say, jammed the lock of his cell door with a small match box and later made his escape. He was recaptured at the home of his father-in-law, P. Coanishok, in Galitzin, Pa., two weeks later.

Swissvale and Rankin police said Dell and two alleged acomplices were involved in numerous whisky thefts in Homewood, Rankin, Swissvale and Wilkinsburg.

LINERS GROUND OFF CAPE COD

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., July 10.—(INS.)—Two big steamships, one a round-the-world passenger liner, ran ashore off Cape Cod today in a heavy fog.

The Dollar liner President Hayes went hard and fast off Shovelful Shoal, Monomoy Point, at the southern end of the elbow of the long sandy arm of the cape.

A short time previous the British freight steamship Crandon went on a bar off Peaked Hill at the northern tip of the cape.

Approximately 170 officers and men were aboard the President Hayes, which was en route from New York to Boston without passengers, and 30 officers and men aboard the Crandon.

Skeleton of Student Lost 9 Years Identified

MUNCIE, Ind., July 10.—(INS.)—Identification of the skeleton found in an air shaft at the Central High School building here as that of Perlie Guelsby Hogg, 15, an orphan, formerly of near Harrisburg, Ill., missing for nine years, was announced here today by Coroner Clarence Piepho, of Delaware County.

At the same time the coroner said he would return a verdict of "probable suicide" in the strange case.

The skeleton was discovered accidentally yesterday at the bottom of the sealed shaft by plumbers. Indications pointed to the boy's death nearly 10 years ago.

Identification was made definite today, the coroner said, when Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cooper, the former an uncle of the boy, and Mrs. Effie Owens, an aunt, identified the shreds of clothing, shoes and the Boy Scout knife found with the skeleton. The identification also was corroborated by a Mrs. Smith, a neighbor of the Coopers, with whom the boy lived here. The boy disappeared December 21, 1922, after making threats either to leave town or kill himself, Mrs. Owens told the coroner.

RESCUER SLAIN BY ASSAILANT OF CHILD

McKeesport Girl Sees Father Stabbed Near Home, Hurls Glass at Killer in Chase

Mike Jeney was known to his neighbors in McKeesport as a man who loved children.

That love cost him his life last night, when he died from a knife thrust through the heart.

He had left his family—four of his five children and his wife—sitting on the steps of his home, 935 Jerome street, to go to the rescue of a neighbor's child attacked by a man, who had been annoying children of the district for several weeks.

ESCAPES PURSUIT

One of his daughters, Mary, 14, saw the stabbing and gave chase to her father's assailant, hurling a glass against his head as he escaped.

Two days a week Jeney worked as a laborer in the National Tube Works. During his off days he took his children picnicking or swimming or played with them in the yard of the home.

RUSHES TO RESCUE

Last night, some of Mike's friends were holding a party. His wife, Anna, asked:

"Why don't you go, Mike?"

And he answered:

"I'd rather stay here and play with the kids."

While he sat on the steps in front of his home shortly after 9 p. m., a child screamed in the alley at the side of the house.

For several weeks, his wife said, a man has been enticing children into the alley by offering them nickels. Several times, she added, her husband had chased him away.

Jeney knew what the scream meant. He ran into the alley and grabbed the man. The child fled.

CHILD PURSUES SLAYER

There was a brief struggle and the man Jeney was grappling with drew a knife and plunged it into his captor's chest.

Jeney fell and his assailant fled.

Mary gave chase, holding a tumbler in her hand. Seeing she could not overtake the man, she threw the glass. Today she said:

"I hit him right back of the ear. I'm sorry it wasn't an ax."

In the meantime, Jeney staggered into the kitchen, where he again collapsed. Neighbors took him to the McKeesport Hospital, but he died as their car entered the driveway.

Police said they have a clue to the stabber's identity.

NEW YORK, July 10.—(AP.)—Traugott F. Keller, chief engineer of the City Dock Department, who has been under questioning in a legislative investigation of New York's government, was killed in a subway today in what railway officials called a leap underneath the train.

Keller was ground under the wheels of a rushing southbound express at the Bowling Green Station, near the southern tip of Manhattan. He was 45 and had been in city service 21 years.

In his pocket, police said, was a subpena notifying him to appear before assistants to Referee Samuel Seabury, who is conducting the city inquiry.

TRAPPED DRIVER RESCUED

Firemen worked frantically for nearly an hour today to rescue John Drechsel, 19, of 1302 Arch street, North Side, trapped beneath a five-ton truck which upset after it got out of control on Verona boulevard. Drechsel, crushed and suffering from loss of blood, was taken to Pittsburgh Hospital where it was said his condition is serious. Doctors and an ambulance stood by to aid the pinioned man.

In its dash down a steep, slippery grade, the machine crashed into a telephone pole and toppled over, imprisoning Drechsel beneath the steering wheel and a door. Firemen cut the steering wheel with a hacksaw to effect Drechsel's rescue.

Francis Neal, of 406 Simpson street, riding with Drechsel, crawled to safety. He suffered slight lacerations to his arm. Drechsel is employed by the North Side Packing Company.

STATE WAITS REPORT OF SLEUTHS

Citizens Committee Charges Borough Police Won't Act; Protest Meeting Called

The Citizens' Committee of McKees Rocks today asked State Police to investigate the bombing of the home of Thomas J. Conley, reform political candidate, which occurred early yesterday.

Capt. Albert Carlson, in charge of the Greensburg barracks, asked Alfred Williams, who made the request as general chairman of the committee, to await a report from county detectives who investigated the case yesterday.

TROOPERS WAITING

If results are not forthcoming from the county sleuths or the borough police, Carlson said, he would confer with Williams at once.

Williams said this afternoon:

"The borough police have not done their duty and they give no intention that they will try to do so.

"We asked for the state troopers to protect our citizens from the local police officers."

BRYAN BLAMES GAS

Other developments in the wake of the bombing, which wrecked the front of the home of the 70-year-old candidate for justice of the peace, early yesterday, were:

1—Miles Bryan, for 40 years Republican boss of McKees Rocks and against whom the committee's drive is centering, issued a statement denying that the explosion had political significance. He said it was probably caused by accumulated gas inside the house instead of a bomb.

2—A mass meeting was called by the Citizens' Committee for tonight in its headquarters, 293 Broadway, for the announced purpose of organizing a "clean-up" of the borough politically.

3—Leaders of the committee announced they would engage an attorney this afternoon to direct their investigation of the bombing and to forwarl their request for state police to Harrisburg.

4—The committee, through Chairman Williams, denied Bryan's statement and said that his investigators who had reported the explosion caused by a bomb, were trying to conceal the facts.

Leaders of the Citizens' Committee met last night and formulated plans for the "cleanup" to be launched tonight.

ASSAILS BRYAN

Williams told them:

"Conditions in McKees Rocks have about reached a point where it is a question of who survives—Bryan or the law-abiding element. This bombing has been detrimental to Bryanism."

After the meeting, more than 150 members of the committee called on Conley in his home at 311 Catherine street and extended to him assurance of their support. He said:

"I am not frightened. This is going to make me fight all the harder for re-election."

Bryan's statement was issued this morning. It read:

"It is absurd to assume that the unfortunate damage at Mr. Conley's home was the result of any political reprisal.

"Reputable persons who investigated Mr. Conley's house

Hutchins called Tunney to inquire about the vacation charms of Brioni Island in the Adriatic, where Tunney spent his honeymoon with the former Polly Lauder. He was informed:

"Mr. Tunney's secretary reports that Mr. Tunney does not talk to Chicago."

Several days later, Tunney called Hutchins and spent 10 minutes in apologizing and 20 minutes in describing Brioni Island, for which Hutchins started yesterday.

GERMANY TURNING TO U. S. FOR HELP IN FINANCIAL CRISIS

ENVOY SACKETT CONFERS WITH CURTIUS

Hitler Attacks Hoover's Debt Plan; Britain Puts Moratorium Into Effect

BERLIN, July 10.—(AP.)—In view of the situation which has developed at Paris in connection with the visit of Dr. Hans Luther, head of the Reichsbank, United States Ambassador Sackett had a long conference this afternoon with Julius Curtius, the foreign minister, and later was scheduled to talk with Chancellor Bruening.

It was believed that the German government, without waiting for Dr. Luther's return, may turn to the United States for financial aid.

News from Paris that Dr. Luther is coming back to Berlin instead of going on to Basel for the world bank meeting on Monday, caused consternation in political circles.

His return can mean only one thing, it is believed here, namely that the French confronted him with political demands as the price of financial aid.

Dr. Luther, whose position is non-political, naturally could not meet terms of that nature and it is assumed that he is coming home to consult the cabinet.

HITLER ATTACKS PLAN

Meanwhile, Germany's radical elements are massing their forces for an attack on the Hoover moratorium in the belief that it bulwarks the treaty of Versailles.

Delegates of all parties opposed to Chancellor Bruening's government met last night to consider ways and means of combating what they termed "the attempt of those now in power to continue the policy of fulfillment of the Versailles treaty under veiled froms."

Adolf Hitler, leader of the National Socialists; Alfred Hugenberg, Nationalist chieftain, both of whom have expressed skepticism that the debt holiday would aid Germany, and Prince August Wilhelm, fourth son of the former kaiser, dominated the deliberations.

On the heels of the declaration by the Nationalist opposition came another today from the Steel Helmets, a war veterans' organization. It declares the Hoover moratorium cannot bring relief to Germany, but on the contrary, means only increased taxation and the "ultimate crash of industry so long as Prussia is socialistically controlled."

BRITAIN ENACTS PLAN

LONDON, July 10.—(AP.)—The British government is putting the Hoover moratorium into operation immediately by informing the Bank for International Settlements that she will not expect payment of the German annuity due on July 15.

The government also sent official invitations today to the United States, France, Germany, Italy, Belgium and Japan to attend the conference of Young plan experts, which opens here next Friday.

Memorial to Byrd Sled Dog Unveiled

MONROE, La., July 10.—(AP.)—A rugged boulder bearing a bronze tablet in memory of "Unalaska," lead dog of the Byrd Antarctic expedition, killed by a hit and run driver on Monroe streets last January, was unveiled by school children yesterday.

The bronze tablet bears this tribute by Admiral Byrd to "Unalaska:"

"A faithful leader and a true friend; he never turned back."

'Chicago Kid' Gets Cigarets, Also Fine

Manuel Bancol, 32, Chicago, announced to a crowd on the Monongahela wharf that he was the Chicago Kid in search of cigarets. After collecting a supply, he said he carried a "rod" and that it didn't take much coaxing for him to use it. Patrolman Hugh Lavery arrested Bancol. Search failed to disclose a weapon. This morning Magistrate Leo Rothenberg fined him $10 or 10 days to jail.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., July 10.—(AP.)—Jean Felix Piccard, twin brother of Prof. Auguste Piccard, who explored the stratosphere in a balloon, was among three score applicants for United States citizenship today. BOMBING SPURS REFORM MOVE after the explosion, state that it was caused by something on the inside, rather than on the outside of the house.

BLAMES GAS

"In all probability it was a gas explosion, as evidenced by the fact that the front door was blown outwardly.

"There would absolutely be no occasion for any violence towards Mr. Conley.

"It is a mistake to assume that there is any such political rivalry in McKees Rocks which would result in any violence.

"I condemn violence; it has never been used in McKees Rocks, and it never will."

Conley, who retired from the wholesale liquor business when prohibition went into effect, intimated he had a good idea of the identity of at least one of the bombers, seen leaving the vicinity in an automobile just before the blast.

SCOFFS AT THEORY

Williams, informed of Bryan's statement, said:

"How does Bryan know violence will never be used in McKees Rocks? Has he supreme power over the borough? If he has why doesn't he use it to some good.

"His claim that the explosion was not caused by a bomb is absurd. The door was blown inwardly. Furthermore two autos were seen leaving the place just before the explosion.

"His so-called reputable investigators are trying to make a joke of this affair.

"The police have not tried to get results.

"We are giving them 24 hours to do their duty and protect the citizens of the borough by bringing those responsible for the bombing to justice. Then, if they haven't made an arrest, we'll ask for state police."

His activities in the formation and operation of the Citizens Committee was given by members as responsible for the bombing. A preliminary investigation of the borough's books, it was said, had revealed a muddled condition of finances. For some time the committee has been making plans for a public investigation of the books.

Williams said no controller's report of borough affairs has been made public since 1927, although requests had been made of Controller C. B. Keebler, a brother-in-law of Bryan, Williams said:

"Taxpayers should be permitted to know how their money is being spent. The borough now is in debt more than $2,000,000. Many appropriations have been set aside by Council, but we have no idea what has become of them."

McKees Rocks police were little excited over the bombing. They assured reporters they knew no more of the affair than did the newspapermen.

DUCE WILLING TO CUT ARMY TO 10,000

Mussolini Backs U. S. on Disarmament; Declares World Must Have Peace

By KENNETH CLARK
Universal Service.

ROME, July 10.—Italy has determined to follow the road of peace, Premier Mussolini told Secretary of State Stimson.

After assuring the American secretary that his government will back "whatever program of disarmament the United States may present," the Italian Premier stated, with the utmost emphasis, that if others will disarm proportionately:

"Italy is prepared to accept a military force with as low as 10,000 rifles."

He continued:

"Italy wants peace and wishes to maintain peace. Italy is ready to disarm, but others must do likewise.

PREPARED TO REDUCE

"If others are prepared to reduce equally, Italy is prepared to accept the lowest armament figures ever known."

Premier Mussolini made this announcement last night in the first interview he has ever given to a group of newspaper men, including many from America. It followed a two-hour talk with Mr. Stimson.

The Duce said:

"We want peace. We must have peace; the world needs it. "We must have disarmament.

NEED TRANQUILLITY

"Italy will accept a minimum of disarmament, even down to 10,000 rifles, if other nations have no more."

Discussing world conditions, Mussolini asserted:

"Europe needs tranquillity, and if war looms, then destruction will follow."

The rising tide of Communism in the world, given impetus by the depression, brought a warning from the Fascist chieftain, who declared:

"The world is experiencing a terrific panic. We must bolster the morale of the people. Panics are the products of the low ebb of the morale of great populations.

"Remember, this is no idle warning. We must be on guard."

TERROR REIGNS AS GANGS WAR OVER RUM

Gun Battle in Hospital, New Murder Mark N. Y. Fight; Diamond 'On Spot' Report

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service.

NEW YORK, July 10.—The New York underworld today continued to fight it out for control of the business of liquor-running and racketeering, thrown into chaos from the recent government indictments in Chicago of the "big shots" of the national rum ring, including Al Capone.

Reports of similar conditions in other cities were received by police. The presence of a number of out-of-town gunmen in New York was reported.

Not since the early days of prohibition when the "centralization" of the nefarious liquor industry was under way has such a carnival of murder been recorded over a brief period.

BATTLE IN HOSPITAL

The bitterness of the battle is reflected in the ferocity which has accompanied each killing.

Slayings have been marked by torture, mutilation and ingenious new devices for putting-on-the-spot.

Unheard of audacity has also been added to the bloody incursions of gangdom in the past few days.

Today, a squad of gangsters invaded the quiet of Trinity Hospital in Brooklyn in an attempt to "finish the job" on Tony Mongno, one-armed beer baron, who already lay wounded with three bullets in him.

The henchmen of Mongno shot it out with the invading forces. Before retreating, the invading mob kidnaped one of the defending gangsters from the second floor of the hospital.

Police said the kidnaped man undoubtedly would be "taken for a ride."

Mongno, despite his wounds, asked to be discharged from the hospital. Surrounded by a bodyguard and supported by friends, he secretly left by a rear exit.

LURED TO DEATH

Lured to a room in a prominent hotel in the Broadway sector, Carmelo Liconti, mob chief, was garroted, stabbed to the heart, his throat cut and his upper lip split—this latter the Sicilian symbol of a squealer's penalty.

As a further indication of the fight for control of the booze business in the Metropolitan area, Jack (Legs) Diamond, who once had a "good piece" of the beer-running business, was reported scheduled to be "put-on-the-spot" before he goes on trial up-state next Monday.

Six detectives were assigned to guard Diamond, according to word from Albany.

2 More Slain in Chicago Battle for Beer Control

CHICAGO, July 10.—(INS.)—Discovery of the body of Frank Coliondo, 30, reputed alcohol runner and gangster, today presented police with two murder mysteries, both of which were outgrowths of a South Side "beer war," according to detectives.

Only a few hours after Frank Palko, 41, of Calumet City, Ill., soft drink parlor owner, was slain in the rear of his bar, Coliondo was taken for a "ride" by gang foes and his body dumped in the rear of a South Side dwelling.

Coliondo, a minor figure in the liquor racket, had been shot through the head. The body lay face downward in a back room of the unoccupied dwelling.

HERO OF BATTLE WITH COW DIES

Arthur Hay, 32, of 22 Yale street, North Side, died early today in his home from injuries suffered when he was gored by one of three cows which escaped from a truck en route to a slaughter house late yesterday.

Hay, an ice dealer, father of six children, directed a group of children to safety and attempted to pen one of the animals after it had wandered into a yard in Ridgewood street, near Perrysville avenue. The cow charged him, knocking him down.

William Busch, 27, of 690 Ridgewood street, a cross-country runner and marathon dancer, was charged by the cow as he attempted to rescue Hay. Busch was confined to his home today with several fractured ribs and probable internal injuries. His condition was regarded as serious.

A second cow was shot by Patrolman Arthur Jennings after it had charged the officer and pinned him against a tree. The third animal had not been located. The cows escaped, police said, when the endgate of the truck in which they were being hauled gave away.

ACTRESS' DEATH IN FIRE PROBED

NEW YORK, July 10.—(INS.)—The death of Mrs. Marion Day Berrien, former "Follies" showgirl, whose body was found in her fire-wrecked home at Forest Hills yesterday, probably was accidental, detectives announced today.

While all evidence gathered by the police indicated the woman had evidently fallen asleep while smoking a cigaret on the wicker porch set where the body was discovered, Inspector John J. Gallagher, in charge of detectives, however, said he would continue his investigation.

Assured that Lewis Gompers, a friend of the woman, had proved he was far from the scene at the time of the fire, Gallagher prepared today to question more of her recent associates.

An autopsy will be completed by Dr. Howard W. Neall at the Queen's Morgue today.

Woman and Navy Officer Quizzed in Wife's Death

CORONADO, Cal., July 10.—(AP.)—Police sought to question Lieut. Commander Randolph Scudder, retired naval officer, and Mrs. Francis Geiger further today, following the death of Mrs. Scudder and the discovery of Mrs. Geiger's two children living alone and without food.

Mrs. Scudder, 47, died yesterday of poison which Coroner Chester Gunn said she had taken apparently with suicidal intent.

Police Chief Ivan J. Smith said Mrs. Lilian Hackney told him she and her friend, Mrs. Scudder, went to Tijuana and saw Scudder there with Mrs. Geiger. He had been away from home for eight days, Smith was told.

Smith found Mrs. Geiger's children, Gretchen, 16, and Billie, 9, living alone and said they had been without food for several days.

Scudder returned home last night, but declined to talk. Mrs. Geiger, who returned at about the same time, denied she had been with Scudder, but declined to reply to other questions.

Mrs. Geiger, former society woman of Washington, D. C., is the widow of Col. Harold Geiger, World War veteran, killed in an airplane crash at Middletown, Pa., in 1925. He was aide to Brig. Gen. Benjamin Foulis, director of the American Air Forces in the war.

KLINE REVEALED AS GRANTING DE ROSA PARK SITE LEASE

LANG'S INQUIRY LEADS DIRECT TO MAYOR

Public Works Director in Europe When Highland Location Was Assigned

Mayor Charles H. Kline was the lessor of Highland Park property for a refreshment stand, said to be operated by Mike De Rosa, Twelfth Ward Republican chairman and concessionaire, it was revealed today.

Shortly after Public Works Director Edward G. Lang began an investigation to learn in what manner permission had been gained to erect the stand, Lang said he found Mayor Kline had executed the lease, during Lang's absence in Europe.

Lang said:

"The lease, Mayor Kline told me this morning, was executed by him during my absence in Europe last summer. The lessee is paying the city $15 a month for the property. As I understand it, the matter was entirely legal."

Lang revealed that the lease was executed to Frances Bove last June, and for an indefinite term, effective from July 1, 1930. Lang has not yet determined to whom Frances Bove leased the lot.

The stand was erected within a few feet of the site on which Mrs. Stella Stewart wanted to locate a $10,000 stand. She was refused permission because the stand which she contemplated might mar the river view from the park.

TOKIO FLIERS TO TRY AGAIN

NOME, Alaska, July 10.—(AP.)—Their attempted nonstop flight from Seattle to Tokio having ended near here in failure, Reg L. Robbins and Harold S. Jones, of Texas, today planned an early return to the United States to try it again.

Robbins and Jones brought their monoplane Fort Worth to earth at Solomon, 30 miles east of here early yesterday after having covered about 2,100 miles of the 5,100-mile route and having connected several times with their trimotored refueling plane, piloted by J. J. Mattern and Nick Greener.

After a long rest Robbins and Jones announced they would use the Fort Worth for their second attempt, but would install a larger engine. They said the same trimotored ship would be used for refueling.

MR. AND MRS. RUDY VALLEE . . . . KEPT SECRET TWO DAYS!

The newlywed Vallees, pictured during their delirious happiness. They—he the crooner, she the film actress and police chief's daughter—were secretly married Monday and the secret didn't leak until it was boldly announced by his radio officials in New York.

MAINE TO FETE RUDY, BRIDE

WESTBROOK, Me., July 10.—(INS.)—When Rudy Vallee, radio crooner, "comes home with his bride" the home town folks want to make it the most spectacular homecoming the Pine Tree state has ever seen.

An organization was being perfected today to make the welcome to Rudy's bride, the former Miss Fay Webb, musical comedy actress and daughter of the Santa Monica, Cal., police chief, and Westbrook's "favorite son" an event long to be remembered.

Just when the celebration is to be held was not clear. It may be this week-end, if Rudy does not have to go to Atlantic City, or it may be the following week-end.

Charles A. Vallee, local druggist, and his wife, over the long distance telephone, invited Rudy and his bride "Down East" for a week-end. The news spread around town and the welcome plans began to crystalize.

Persistent reports were current that the bride and groom would fly from New York to Scarboro airport, 10 miles from here. Gov. William Tudor Gardner may head the list of greeters at the airport.

RICH CONVICTS' PRISON BRIBES UNDER PROBE

'Vacations' From Atlanta To Army Fort Bought, Investigation Discloses

International News Service.

NEW YORK, July 10.—Reports that wealthy convicts committed to federal prisons obtained transfers to the comparative comforts of Army detention camps have been under investigation for several weeks, it became known today. The prisons under inquiry are Atlanta and Leavenworth.

The rich convicts are said to have paid bribes ranging from $500 to $1,000 for these "vacations." Why certain bootleggers and stock swindlers are now in the Army detention camps instead of the federal prisons to which they were committed was being probed by the Department of Justice agents.

Considerable secrecy surrounds the investigation. It was said, however, that a letter borne by Paul Rabkin, a watch smuggler, was the "tip off." He had been brought to New York to face a new smuggling suspect. Last July Rabkin was sentenced to two years at Atlanta. Yet when he was wanted recently by federal officials to confront the new smuggler suspect he was found at Fort Wadsworth.

The letter was from a convict at Atlanta. The convict is said to have written Rabkin that he had raised a sum of money and wanted to buy a transfer to the fort.

It is understood that Rabkin paid $1,000 for his transfer. The federal officials refused to disclose to whom the money was paid.

Investigation disclosed that more than 1,000 convicts have been transferred from federal prisons to army detention camps to relieve congestion. Inquiry is now under way to learn how many of the favored convicts paid for their transfers.

and Secretary of Commerce Lamont.

The operators indicated they are unwilling to trade individual independence for a form of government supervision similar to that of Great Britain. Neither are they convinced that the industry is in such distress that they should consider the cooperative plan being worked out by the oil producers.

While the Department of Commerce head and the mine operators were closeted in a five-hour executive session some 60 mine workers from the Western Pennsylavina soft coal fields picketed the White House and presented to the President's secretary, Theodore G. Joslin, a petition protesting against the purpose of the conference.

The picketing miners, who had come to Washington during the afternoon from Pittsburgh, formed a line in front of the White House.

The picketing by the Pennsylvania miners was conducted without disturbance while Frank Borich, secretary of the National Miners' Uunion, accompanied by four as a committee, entered the executive offices of the White House and were received by Secretary Joslin.

HOOVER NEWS CENSORSHIP HINTED

President Irked by Leaks; 'Official' Information Only Suggested by Aide

Hoover Ousts Dog

WASHINGTON, July 10.—(AP.)—Shamrock will bite no more Marines at President Hoover's camp on the Rapidan in Virginia.

The big Irish wolf hound, after the recent attack on a Leatherneck's leg at the camp, has lost his place at the exclusive White House kennels. To whom he was given was not made known.

Stories of the biting incident annoyed the President and helped precipitate his latest clash with newspapermen.

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—While Chief William H. Moran, of the United States Secret Service, continued his investigation of what the White House has elected to term "recent news leaks," newspapermen today were wondering whether President Hoover was attempting to impose a virtual news censorship.

Theodore G. Joslin, secretary to the President, informed writers that it was the policy of the White House that "all information concerning the President should come only from stated official sources." How many such there are, he declined to say, but he is the sole member of the secretariat charged with contacting with the press.

POLICY RESENTED

Joslin admitted that any newspaperman had "a perfect right" to ask any employe of the White House any question, but added:

"Just try and get any information."

Veteran Washington correspondents have protested to the White House concerning the latest news policy. They have told Joslin that the ruling was in effect a censorship and some of them frankly expressed their resentment at being investigated.

The entire detail of secret service men attached to the White House meanwhile seemingly is under suspicion of having given out a series of stories which were irksome to Mr. Hoover. Chief Moran is investigating their source by order of Secretary Lawrence Richey, himself a former secret service man, and all of the sleuths are believed to have been called on the carpet.

SEEK SOURCE

According to Joslin, "15 or 20 stories have leaked in the past few weeks, and we are determined to find out where they came from." The story which precipitated the investigation was a brief item relating the fact that the President left his Rapidan camp so suddenly last Sunday to get back to Washington to resume the debt negotiations, the secret service men were forced to pile into their car while still buttoning their shirts, and a basket lunch was raced after him in a following car which caught up with the party far down the road.

When this occurred, the correspondents were unable to get in contact with Joslin, the "stated source" of White House news, who was in Washington.

Richey, the secretary who was at the camp, was "too busy to talk" with them.

"NOISE MORATORIUM"

The second story, the source of which is being probed, was another brief item relating that the President sent a Negro doorman up to stop some carpenters from interfering with his afternoon nap, and the Negro solemnly informed the workmen that "the President has declared a moratorium on noise for the rest of the afternoon."

A third which annoyed the President told of how his giant Irish wolfhound had bitten one of the Marines guarding his Rapidan camp.

DR. DINWIDDIE TO LEAD DRYS IN CAMPAIGN

Man Who Often Clashed With Anti-Saloon League Offered Important Post

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The campaign of the united dry forces of the nation to force dry planks in the Republican and Democratic platforms and nominate dry candidates for President will in all probability be directed by the Rev. Edwin C. Dinwiddie, it was learned today.

The post of executive director of the board of strategy, created by the conference of organizations supporting the Eighteenth Amendment, has been tendered the Rev. Mr. Dinwiddie, and he has it under consideration. His acceptance is expected soon.

The action of the dry leaders raises Dr. Dinwiddie to new power among the dry forces of the country.

PLAN NEW DEAL

It also is regarded as evidence of the determination of dry forces to bring about a "new deal" in the campaign against repeal or modification of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Dr. Dinwiddie, it is known, has not always been in sympathy with the Anti-Saloon League of America, which the late Wayne B. Wheeler made the spearhead of political activity of the drys.

As a result of the danger of rivalry cropping up between leaders of many dry organizations after the death of Wheeler, known as the "Dry Czar," an attempt was made to create a "super-dry" body embracing more than 30 organizations backing prohibition. It is this organization of which Dr. Dinwiddie is secretary.

Under the plan of the drys, the board of strategy, composed of 50 nationally known dry workers, will organize their forces throughout the country to head off anti-dry candidates for the Republican and Democratic presidential and vice presidential nominations next year.

EARLY START

This effort of the drys, launched a year in advance of the national conventions, is contrasted with their action before the 1928 campaign, when little organization work was undertaken until delegates had been named to the national conventions.

The campaign for 1932 will be officially opened in September. The dry forces plan to enter drys for the posts of delegates to both national conventions.

Gov. Roosevelt, of New York; Gov. Ritchie, of Maryland; Newton D. Baker, former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, all suggested for the Democratic nomination; Senator Dwight W. Morrow, of New Jersey, urged as an anti-dry Republican candidate for President or Vice President, are said to be among the targets of the drys.

The case was turned over to social workers.

WALSH ORDERS CLUB RAIDED

Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh today ordered North Side police to raid a club in which two policemen are alleged to have obtained drinks before a motorist was beaten Wednesday night. The order was transmitted to Capt. Anthony Block, acting inspector in the absence of Inspector Charles Faulkner at Conneaut Lake.

The two patrolmen, James Dignan and Alphonse Pacella, were suspended and ordered to appear before the Police Trial Board next Wednesday. Albert Funfar, 30, of 1153 Basin street, suffered severe cuts which necessitated 23 stitches in his head at Allegheny General Hospital.

Girl Textile Strike Leader Sentenced

CENTRAL FALLS, R. I., July 10.—(INS.)—Ann Burlac, 22-year-old organizer from Pennsylvania, one of the leaders of the textile mill strikers here, today was sentenced to serve 30 days in jail and fined $200 following her conviction several days ago on a charge of beating a forelady in a plant. She was released under $2,500 bonds for a review of her case by the Superior Court in October and instructed "to keep the peace."

Crowds of strikers cheered the bobbed-haired blonde as she entered the local court.

POPE ASSAILS MUSSOLINI AS PERSECUTOR

Duce's Order Debarring Fascisti From Catholic Society Stirs Vatican

International News Service.

ROME, Italy, July 10.—The action of Premier Benito Mussolini in holding membership in the Catholic Action incompatible with adherence to Fascism was denounced today by Pope Pius XI as persecution.

Receiving Czechslovakian members of the society at the Vatican today, His Holiness asked for their prayers for the troublous condition throughout Italy. He said:

"We need your prayers because as you can see Azione Cattolica can flourish in your land, while it can be persecuted in the Aome of St. Peter."

By his attitude the Pope again indicated his determination not to conclude an agreement with the government until the Catholic Youth Society has been vindicated of charges of political strategems against Fascism. It was on such a charge that all units of the society in Italy were ordered closed recently.

Despite apparent calm at the Vatican when news of Mussolini's new order was received, the Pope today indicated further intrenchment along the lines of his firm stand to demand apologies and reparations for recent attacks on society members and quarters.

Romans were wondering today whether the latest act of the Fascist Premier would result in abrogation of the concordat between church and state and the Lateran treaty by which the celebrated "Roman question" was supposed to have been settled last year.

The clubs of the Action Cattolica were recently closed by the Italian government on the ground that they were a cloak for anti-Fascist political parties. Interference with internal politics was alleged.

Hatton played in "The Boss of Rustler's Roost," and other Western films.

Belle Reaches Reno Too Tired to Talk

RENO, Nev., July 10.—(AP)—Belle Livingston, New York night club hostess, arrived in the West's whoopee town last night so tired from a motor trip that she refused to see reporters.

She agreed, however, to meet newspapermen today and tell them what she expects to do in Reno, where gambling has been legalized and there is no state dry law. She has announced plans to open a night club here.

HIT-RUN DRIVER REWARD POSTED

A reward of $100 has been offered by the Pittsburgh Motor Club for information leading to arrest and conviction of the hit-run driver who injured Traffic Officer Frank Kuszajewski on the Ohio River boulevard Wednesday night. The reward was decided upon last night at a meeting of the club's directors. C. H. Roth, club secretary, said:

"This was one of the most vicious 'hit and run' cases ever reported in the Pittsburgh district, and the Motor Club will do everything in its power to procure the punishment of the driver."

Roth expressed belief that the driver was operating a stolen machine. Officials of the club praised Patrolman Kuszajewski. The officer was aiding two children to cross California avenue when a motorist disobeyed his stop order and passed him. The patrolman, giving chase in another car, stopped the offending driver, but just as Kuszajewski stepped to the street, the driver, police say, started his machine and ran down the officer.

FORGED STOCK TRACED

DETROIT, July 10.—(AP.)—With one man under arrest, police were trying today to backtrack the trail of 1,000 stolen and forged preferred stock certificates of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Company, found yesterday to have been marketed in Michigan.

The shares are a part of a block of stock blanks, with potential value of $175,000, stolen as it was being delivered by the American Bank Note Company in New York two weeks ago.

Checks for $35,000 and $50,000 were given by financial houses in payment for the fraudulent certificates discovered here. The $35,000 check was cashed, but payment was stopped on the $50,000 check.

Police and prosecutors declined to identify the man under arrest or to discuss his connection with the case.

Youth Gets Life For Killing Woman

CHICAGO, July 10.—(INS.)—William Putscher, 21, faced life imprisonment today for the murder of Mrs. Mildred Helsing, who was strangled to death with a black satin ribbon tied around her throat. The jury deliberated three hours.

Putscher defended himself with an alibi, but his former sweetheart and his companion in several small robberies failed to uphold his story of his doings on April 1, 1930, the day of the crime.

TRUSTS SCORED BY BROOKHART

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Virginia, July 10.—(AP.)—The co-operative economic system was recommended to the University of Virginia Institute of Public Affairs today by Senator Brookhart as the best method to combat the growth of monopolies.

The Iowa Republican urged enactment of co-operative banking laws and a co-operative code to encourage the growth of co-operative stores and banks.

Declaring monopolistic control of credit is the greatest cause of economic discrimination and oppression, Brookhart said the country needs another "Andrew Jackson" to combat "the menace of financial dictation."

Who's Who gives the home address of Randolph Edgar as Boston, and lists him as a contributor to the Bellman, Vanity Fair, the Theater Magazine and other periodicals. He was a member of the editorial staff of the Literary Digest in 1910-1911. War Vet Paroled In Love Killing BATAVIA, O., July 10.—(AP.)—Herbert White, 30, pleaded guilty yesterday to manslaughter, admitting he shot John Huelsman, 21, to death when he found him in his home with Mrs. White, and was given a deferred sentence of three years. He was freed from the $1,000 bond on which he had been held.

The killing occurred when White returned to his home here from a war veterans' hospital. The Whites have three children.

Veto of Near Beer, Racing Bills Upheld

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 10.—(AP.)—The Alabama State Senate yesterday upheld Gov. B. M. Miller's veto of a bill to legalize racing in Mobile, and killed a measure providing for a referendum on repeal of the law against possession and sale of near-beer.

Shortly afterward the Senate voted to table a motion to remove the near-beer bill from the adverse calendar, killing the referendum proposal.

OHIO RED RIOT THREATS AIRED

AKRON, O., July 10.—(AP.)—Testimony that Mayor Seney A. Decker, of Barberton, threatened to "smash the heads" of Akron newspapermen present at the riot which followed a Communist meeting at Barberton June 26 was prepared today for submission to state investigators.

The testimony was presented yesterday at a deposition hearing of the two suits for $50,000 against Barberton officials filed by Frank Demshaw, Akron newspaper photographer, as the result of a slugging he received during the riot.

It was presented by Samuel J. Gordon, Akron lawyer and real estate abstractor, who said that Mayor Decker, in a conversation with him before the Communist meeting, asserted the Communists were not going to meet, and that:

"All this trouble is caused by the d— newspapers."

The Ziegfeld Zoo

So that the average Stage-Door Jonathan, and others, will be better acquainted with what is known as a "Follies" girl—the following facts and fancies of most of the sirens in the Ziegfeld Menagerie are affectionately submitted herewith:

The girl with the longest and prettiest lashes in the "Follies" is Helen Walsh, born in N. Y. C. Her profile is virtually flawless. A perfectly arched nose, and the lips curved and expectant.

Patsy O'Day, a New York colleen, with the dazzling combination of jet black hair and gray eyes, is rated as the show's best all-around dancer. Mr. Ziegfeld asserts that she has the accuracy and rhythm necessary for the Front Line.

The dancer runner-ups, it appears, are Virginia Franck (Brooklyn) and Ruth Tara (Chicago). Ruth is a fragile type, blonde, and comes from Wisconsin University, where she won scholastic honors. The one chorus girl who can solve geometrical theorems and repeat Latin paradigms.

The most serious girl is Constance MacKenzie (N. Y. C.).

The best swimmer is Drucilla Strain (Long Beach, N. Y.), who when she isn't in the "Follies" is a life guard.

The girl who has the best disposition in the show is really two girls—the Howard Twins, charmers from Tulsa, Okla.

The girl with the most interesting relative is Alice Burrage (N. Y. C.), who is the niece of George Ade.

Undoubtedly, the gal with the grandest sense of humor is Joan Burgess (N. Y. C.), queenly, beautiful, engaging. So perfect is her charm that a magazine has selected her as the typical "Follies" girl.

Ruth Patterson (N. Y. C.), is distinguished for her hauteur.

The most "English" girl is Blanche Satchel (Sydney, Australia). H. C. Christy and other celebrated illustrators have drawn her.

Vera Milton (London), is the only dancer in the show who can't dance, but she can get "woofled" (drunk to you!) passing a speakeasy.

The most exotic girl is Emmita Casanova (Cordova, Spain). Her eyes are dark and have the sensuousness of the lotus flower. Invariably reading decadent tomes or penning pieces for the magazines.

The most symmetrical figure in the "Follies" belongs to Katherine Burke (N. Y. C.). Her "Dietrichs" are plenty pretty, believe you me.

The one who is consistently late is Christine Maple (London).

Iris Adrian (Los Angeles) has the reddest hair, and Betty Real (Portland, Me.), has the blondest.

The best rumba dancer is Bernice Roberts (Philadelphia). It is said she has more jewels than any other lass in the troupe.

The most ambitious girl, they would have you believe, is Grace Moore, who brought her queenly manners from Toronto (a Canuck).

The wittiest girl is Rosalind Golden (Baltimore, Md.). They call her the "baby" in the show. The boys very likely say "Lo, Baby!"

Temple, Tex., contributed Mary Alice Rice, the most literary member, if you please. She is always reading Anatole France.

The best social dancer in the show is Maxine Gross, born in N. Y. C. She is blonde, pert, petite and playful.

Dorothy Bow (N. Y. C.), is a concert pianist, and a dancer extraordinary.

The blonde Caja Eric (Denmark) has visited all the chief cities in the world and is the "Follies" outstanding linguist.

The tallest gal is Elsie Rossi (Brooklyn), a beauty prize winner, and she won a dancing contest over Alice White and Barbara Bennett.

Marjorie Lavoe (Chico, Cal.), was one of the chief ballerinas in the San Carlo Opera Company. And she still is "always on her toes."

From Lewiston, Ill., came the best-looker among the brunettes—Barbara Smith, whose pet hobby is breaking glasses (and I don't mean spectacles).

Freda Mierse (N. Y. C.) is the "reincarnation" of Lillian Russell.

Gloria Pierre (Bronx) has the most perfect teeth. She is the pride of the dental advertising photographers . . . Cleveland gave the show Marie Shea, New Orleans gave Boots Mallory, Eunice Holmes is from Tuxpan, Mexico, and is so sick. Instead of sending her posies, the girls sent her the coin in a lump chunk . . . Boston gave Dorothy Dianne, the Bronx gave Dorothy Dodge . . . Dorothy Flood is from Brooklyn, Dorothy Graves in from Washington, Jeanne Howard is from Dallas, Tex. . . . Billie Seward is from Philly, Viv Vernon is from St. Louis. Eileen Wenzel (St. Louis) has socially registered guys Johnning her . . . Helen Arlen (N. Y. C.), is No. 1 name on the dancers' list . . . Independence, Kan., gave Virginia Biddle to the "Follies" and to Harry Richman . . . New Haven is represented by Mildred Borst, whose name reminds you of that Russian red soup.

Betty Dumbris (Washington) has been in more publicity stunts than any other beauty, in the show, and Mary Lange (Pittsburgh) crashed the show on a general call, using no pull . . . Lorelle McCarver (Dennison, Tex.), is a bride, so don't waste your time . . . The most loyal girl in the show is Elsie Behrens (Bremen, Germany) . . . Bobby Brodsley (Brooklyn) quit court stenogging for glorification . . . Sunny Trowbridge (Brookline, Mass.) doesn't believe in ghosts, the Darwin theory, prohibition or that "early to bed and early to rise makes a girl" . . . Marie Stevens (Louisville) was once a bacteriologist . . . Georgia Ellis (Atlanta) has the thickest drawl and once was rushed by a chap named Vallee . . . Yvonne Grey (Brooklyn) gets the most mash notes . . . Catherine Clarke (New York City) is a duplicate of Marilyn Miller . . . Gladys Glad (hurray for the Bronx) is not only billed as "the world's most beautiful girl," but she gets the most coin for being it, and the most mystic beauty is Faith Bacon (Los Angeles), whose silence is as disarming as the perfection of her figure. Slowly she moves, lifts her gorgeous eyes—looks at you, you, you, or even you!—deeply from the very depths of her soul and says—nothing.

THE BEST PLACE TO SHOP, AFTER ALL

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

People I've Met

NEW YORK, July 10.

ERNEST TRUEX. One of the few actors who failed to grow dizzy when he became a star. A swell performer and a grand little guy, he has been the same throughout the years.

Maybe you'd be interested in a little yarn about Ernie. It explains the man so thoroughly and the thing might have happened to any of us. We go back a few years and find Truex offered the star role in "The Fall Guy" in London.

Ernie signed the contract and rushed home to tell the folks the good news. After having played on this side of the water for 25 years, Truex was as excited over that trip across the pond as an urchin with a dollar at Coney Island. The theatrical office informed him that he would sail on the Aquitania, so the actor immediately visited the Cunard Line and secured an armful of literature for himself.

At home that night Truex sat with his two boys—Phil, who is 11, and Jim, who is 15—and pored over that high-powered literature. They looked at pictures of the Aquitania from every angle and the actor picked out sample suites. . .

A few days later the theatrical outfit that had hired him experienced a slight change of heart. With Ernie's family included in the trip, the passage would prove costly. So they told him he would go on a smaller boat of the French Line a few days after the Aquitania sailing.

Once again the same routine. This time it was a hurried visit to the French line for additional literature. The same plans, the same high hopes, the same hysteria. But there came another day—and still another delay. The outfit was evidently trying to book the cheapest passage possible. And they finally placed the Truex family—pa, ma and the two boys—on a little tub that very few people ever speak about.

To the family, however, it represented everything they had anticipated. Never having been introduced to a bigger boat, this one looked like the berries. It had decks, chairs, funnels, a smoking room and even a captain. So what the devil?

The day of sailing was a gala event. The Truexes were actually going to Europe. All Great Neck was down to see them off.

To the two boys, Ernie was guide, preceptor and Chief Know-It-All. They all had caps on immediately, because that was the thing to do. They walked around and around and around decks because Ernie knew that everybody always walked around decks. And so it went.

"Just think, boys," remarked the actor in great glee, "we're on our way to sea. There's Manhattan behind us. And there's the Atlantic straight ahead."

Never was a man quite so happy. He placed an arm around each boy as the boat rolled onward.

"Tonight we dine on water," he went on. "Tonight we sleep on water. We wake up on water tomorrow—and we see no more land until we hit Ireland. Think of that, boys! When you kids arise tomorrow, there'll be no land. So take a good look at that receding coastline and wave a long goodbye. Ah, what a thrill!"

Morning found them awake very early. A steward drew their baths. They dressed hurriedly in order to get to that deck and see that wonderful expanse of water. Their caps pulled down, the father and his two sons went deckwards. As they stepped out, the 11-year-old boy squinted his eyes to the north.

"Hey, pop," he cried excitedly, "what were you talking about last night? There's land!"

Ernie looked in the right direction and told the boy that he was most certainly mistaken. But the more they walked, the more insistent the boy became. When the elder boy chimed in, Father Truex began to feel a trifle sheepish. He approached an officer of the ship.

"I beg your pardon, officer," he said, "but could you tell me about that dark speck over there? Is that an iceberg or another steamer?"

The officer was very nice about it.

"Not at all, sir," was his nonchalant reply. "That's Cape Cod. This boat stops at Boston for several hours in order to take on a load of fish!" . . .

NORMAN ANTHONY. A genial chap with a cynical smile. He has been handed a couple of pretty rough deals in his time, but he had one break that few of us ever get. He had a few friends who stuck with him when the going was tough.

Anthony came to this town 20 years ago and was all ready to become the head man. He was a fair writer and a fair artist. For eight years he labored on and on and then realized his ambition. He became the staff artist on the country's leading humorous publication at the time. Exactly two months later, the editor died. And new editors being new editors—Anthony was once more out in the cold. And beautifully broke in the bargain.

Another humorous sheet, which was on the verge of folding up, turned to Norman Anthony and offered him a job as an idea man. Perhaps he would be able to do something. He did. Two years later, he was the editor. And two years after that the dying sheet was a very healthy affair.

As is usual in such cases, the first magazine—which had dumped him out so unceremoniously—returned to him with a very fancy proposition. Anthony couldn't turn it down. So he returned to the original magazine as its editor.

A year later, he received the toughest blow of all. Kid Depression hammered home a knockout punch and Anthony again went the way of all editors. When he had the dough, Norman Anthony had been extremely free with it. Now, when he needed money most, he was completely broke.

How those boys laughed around this town. I can still hear them. "Well, well," they chirped gleefully, "so Anthony's out, is he? Say, that's too bad. Ha, ha. Always said he never had much talent anyhow. And he's broke, too, eh? Ha, ha."

Then came those few friends who were willing to stick. They got together. They made him a proposition. If he would furnish the paper and ink for a new humorous magazine, they would furnish the drawings and stories for nothing until the paper went over—or died. The publisher agreed. The magazine was started.

It was published for the first time last week. The title is "Ballyhoo"—and it's been the talk of this town since its appearance. It's a grand piece of work and it makes the other humor magazines look like sick puppies.

And, because Norman Anthony had the heart to stick it out, I'm doggone glad . . .

NATIVE BIRTH RATE HERE DECLINES

City Has 6,000 More Women Than Men Between 20 and 30, Census Figures Show

Bachelors can take hope and unrequited Romeos can reach for aspirations that might seem destroyed—if they only read the analyses of the 1930 census, made public today by the Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce.

Analysis of Pittsburgh's people show that a surplus of more than 6,000 women of that "marriageable age" between 20 and 30 years exists—that there are, according to statistics, 56,875 men and nearly 63,000 women in that classification.

The records made further illuminating discoveries, notably:

That of the babies born here during the 1920-1930 decade, more have been boys than girls.

BIRTH RATE DROPS

That there has been a decline in the native birth rate.

That women hold on to life longer than men. In the class of Pittsburghers who have passed their seventy-fifth year, there are 4,090 women and 2,754 men.

That there are 505,245 native born whites in Pittsburgh; 109,072 foreign born whites, 54,983 Negroes, and 517 of the other races.

The employment class set forth that 278,648 persons over 10 years are employed here, normally. The list includes those who, at the time of the enrollment, were not employed, but who usually are.

STEEL FIRST

It indicated that the iron and steel industry employed over 37,000 men and women, while the building trades came next with 20,666.

A decrease in the foreign born citizenry was also noted over the 1920 census, 109,000 being the total in 1930 and 120,000 10 years ago.

Of this group, the only nationals showing increases were natives of Scotland, Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia, Lithuania, Roumania, Greece, Italy and Canada. Appreciable decreases in immigration from Ireland, Austria, Russia and Germany were noted.

Slippery Rock Man To Teach in Turkey

The American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions has engaged John Francis Allison, of 321 College street, Slippery Rock, as a three-year term tutor in their American Collegiate Institute, Istanbul, Turkey, it was announced today. Allison was educated at the State Teachers College at Slippery Rock, and Grove City College. He received his B. S from Grove City in June.

A number of folks may be found in the White Mountains. At the Mount Washington Hotel there are the G. W. Hoffmans, Edward O'Neil II and C. O'Neil, Randall T. Van Pelt and Thomas F. Collins, W. S. Wallace, F. R. Sanderson, F. J. Bennett and Miss Elizabeth Young.

Mrs. A. E. Hunt and Mrs. W. C. King attended the dinner-dance given recently in the White Mountains by the V. H. Dodges and the Frank S. Dodges.

HEARST PLANE AIDS BOY HUNT

SONORA, Cal., July 10.—(Universal.)—A huge airplane skimmed low over the Sierra wilderness east of here yesterday.

From it there fluttered at intervals hundreds of handbills addressed to Dafid Fargo, 12-year-old Los Banos boy missing since last Saturday. They read:

"Dafid Fargo: Come out in the open. Light a fire. We will see you."

In the plane two men carefully swept the country below with powerful binoculars. Two experienced parachute jumpers were ready to leap the instant a trace of the lad was reported by the observers.

It was the Examiner's powerful tri-motored plane piloted by George Hearst, publisher of the San Francisco Examiner, and Ray Crawford. The parachute jumpers were Gordon Hooper and Walter Hall, of San Francisco. Lowell Ralph, flying deputy sheriff of Tuolumne County, handled one pair of binoculars.

Erie Woman Nominated At B. P. W. Convention

Mrs. Helen M. Schluraff, of Erie, a former president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Business and Professional Women's Club, was nominated to the first vice presidency of the National Federation at its convention in Richmond, Va., yesterday.

Mrs. Geline MacDonald Bowman, of Richmond, was nominated for the presidency and other nominees were Dr. Florence May Morse, Los Angeles, for first vice president; Mrs. Eva Hunt Dockery, Boise, Ida., and Mrs. B. K. Robertson, of Hammond, Ind., second vice president; Miss Earline White, Jackson, Miss., for corresponding secretary; Margaret K. Stewart, Arizona Federation, for corresponding secretary, and Miss Margaret Stewart, of Ogden, Utah, for treasurer.

Three possible remedies for the present economic crisis were presented by Dr. Susan B. Kingsbury, of the department of social economy and social research at Bryn Mawr, in an address before the convention last night.

The remedial measures she named were to "muddle along" until one group is led to resist the depression at the expense of other groups, bringing thereby the overturn of society and possibly open revolution; developing a well-planned economic program, which she said so far had failed, and third, opening up the markets of Asia and Eastern Europe by raising their standards of living.

Her address followed that of Walter Millard, Cincinnati, field secretary of the National Municipal League, who asserted that the concept of outlawry of war following the Kellogg-Briand treaties has opened up a new epoch demanding that hitherto unbridled sovereign states should behave according to a code of ehics.

PROPERTY LAW COSTLY TO U. S.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—(INS.)—Community property laws, in effect in eight states, which permit husband and wife to halve their joint income and make separate tax returns, result in an annual loss of about $25,000,000 to the government, it was revealed at the Treasury today.

During 1930 and 1931, the community property laws of California, Washington, Idaho, Texas, New Mexico, Louisiana, Arizona and Nevada were upheld by the United States Supreme Court.

Under these laws the taxpayers are able to make separate returns and thus pay taxes at the rate of lower taxation brackets, in many cases. Thus a husband and wife, whose aggregate income is $10,000, earned by one or the other, or both, may file separate returns, each showing an income of $5,000.

It has been the position of the Treasury that the community property laws give taxpayers of those states having such statutes advantage over a majority of the states who must pay full rates. If all states would adopt community property laws it would result in a serious curtailment of government revenue from this source.

Parade and Fetes End Elks' Meeting

SEATTLE, Wash., July 10.—(AP.)—A parade viewed by thousands of spectators late yesterday, followed in the evening by dances honoring new Grand Lodge officers, brought the sixty-seventh annual national Elks' convention to a close.

Dozens of uniformed groups were included in the 50 units in the parade with bands from four battleships in the harbor taking part.

Lancaster Fair Off for This Year

LANCASTER, Pa., July 10.—(AP.)—The Lancaster County fair will be abandoned this year "in view of present conditions," John H. Meyers, president of the Fair Association, announced. The fair, usually held in late August, has been an annual event for the last 22 years, excepting 1927.

Britons Discover Smallpox Remedy

LONDON, July 10.—(AP.)—Discovery of a new smallpox serum was announced today by the British Medical Research Council, reporting the researches of Prof. William Tulloch and Dr. James Craigie.

The experiments were said to indicate that the serum might give immediate protection to persons in contact with smallpox cases, acting more quickly than the peresent vaccination method.

Mexico Slashes Budget 10 Per Cent

MEXICO CITY, July 10.—(INS.)—Resorting to drastic measures in order to balance the Mexican budget, the cabinet today ordered a 10 per cent cut in all government expenses. Ministers reduced their own salaries.

The cuts, effective July 15, lowered government expenses $5,000,000. Many discharges from the army are expected.

U. S. Warships Visit Port in Scotland

GREENOCK, Scotland, July 10.—(AP.)—The American battleships Arkansas and Wyoming anchored in the Clyde today for a three-day visit. This will be their only port of call in the United Kingdom.

PLASTRON TRIMMING ADDS CHARM TO NEW BLACK COATS

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, July 10.—Every year there is some subtle or individual touch to distinguish the new crops of coats. At present, coats of soft black woolen with plastrons of white flat fur are being shown at several of the leading houses. And there will no doubt be seen when the certain something that decrees the donning of the new model is in the air. Of course, there are certain women who will antedate the mode and soon will be wearing an advance model. Anyhow, that will give us all a chance to see what a coat with plastron trimming looks like.

* * *

SKETCHED IS ONE of the very new coats now on view in Schiaparelli's collection. The material is soft, loosely woven black wool, while the plastron-shaped gilet is of white shaved lamb. A knot of the woolen fabric fastens the top of the coat at the throat and two silvered metal clips passing through the slits at the waistline hold it shut at that point. The straight, narrow sleeves are quite without trimming of any sort.

* * *

FORMING AN ENSEMBLE with the black coat just described, is the Schiaparelli dress of white, closely knit silk jersey. Modernistic designs representing draping are stenciled by hand on the jersey in shades of gray blending into black. The princess lines of the frock are relieved by a flaring circular flounce on the skirt.

Extra-rich

ICE CREAM!

Only in the modern package (introductory price) 15¢ the pint!

AS ALREADY announced to the public that we have served for more than 30 years with Rieck's Milk and Ice Cream, we have created a new Extra-rich "National Dairy" Ice Cream and wrapped and sealed it in a modern package at an introductory price of only 15c the pint.

We took this move because every day thousands of the finest dairy farms bring us their richest milk and cream and they depend on us to take it all. That we faithfully do—we have never failed them—but just now they are producing and bringing us more than this community consumes. We consider it our duty to enable the public to eat more of these great dairy foods, so important to the health of every one. That is why we brought out this great new Extra-rich ice cream at the best ice cream season of all the year.

It is the equal of any bulk ice cream ever made

Just eat and serve this new Extra-rich ice cream and you will find it as great in every way as the finest bulk ice cream you ever tasted. It is made in exactly the same way as the highest-grade bulk ice cream—frozen in spotlessly clean, sterilized freezers. Poured direct from freezer to modern package. Absolutely untouched by human hands. Specially smooth-frozen to protect the marvelous texture and flavor. Wrapped and sealed in glassine to guard its purity and goodness until it reaches you.

Think of the nearest Rieck dealer. Telephone your order. Serve it this very evening

Luncheons. Afternoon teas. Children's parties. For tired adults and children in mid-afternoon. Picnics. As the perfect dessert for any dinner. Those are a few of the ideal occasions for this great Extra-rich ice cream. Ice cream contains the food elements so necessary to strength and vitality. No wonder physicians recommend it. This new ice cream is Extra-rich—it contains more of the vitamins of youth, beauty and health. Do not think of it as enjoyment alone but as the ideal daily food.

Remember the delicious Chocolate, Vanilla, Strawberry and other special flavors. Why not telephone your nearest Rieck dealer right now and serve this great "National Dairy" Ice Cream this very evening! Rieck's—the "National Dairy" Ice Cream.

Seven great health features!

Seven great health features are combined in this superb new pint of Extra-rich ice cream. Study them and see what "National Dairy" means to your health and enjoyment.

1. Pure milk and cream. Only pure, fresh milk and cream, from inspected dairies, are used.
2. Pure flavors. Only the purest and best of flavors—fruits, berries, nuts, chocolate and real sugar—are chosen.
3. Every ingredient tested. "National Dairy" chemists, in spotless modern laboratories, test every ingredient for purity.
4. Pasteurized. As with the finest milk and cream, this new Extra-rich "National Dairy" Ice Cream is pasteurized for the protection of you and your family.
5. Homogenized. This new ice cream is homogenized—a special process that bursts the millions of tiny cream globules, spreading their silken smoothness and digestibility throughout the ice cream.
6. Quick-frozen. An extra quick-freezing process captures and holds all the smoothness, freshness and glorious flavor.
7. Glassine wrapped and sealed. This great new pint of ice cream is wrapped and sealed in glassine to protect it absolutely until it reaches you.

TUNE IN on the Rieck Revelers program every Tuesday evening at 7.15 Daylight Saving Time, over Station KDKA. Also, don't miss Rieck's Trips to Wonderland every Friday evening at 6.30 (D. S. T.), over Station WCAE.

Why "National Dairy" means protection to you

The National Dairy Products Corporation is a nation-wide organization created to insure the finest dairy products that care and skill can produce, to promote the distribution of these to as many people as possible at the most economical price, and to build a staple market for the dairy farmers.

Only the leading dairy concerns of the country—as for example Rieck's—have been chosen to comprise the National Dairy organization. Throughout the country, they serve two million homes daily with the finest milk, ice cream and many other food products. National Dairy surrounds your dairy foods with every protection that science can devise, so that your family and your children may enjoy them with absolute safety.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

This new ice cream is sold only in the modern "National Dairy" pint package and this price of 15c a pint does not apply to any other ice cream in either bulk or package, sold or handled by Rieck dealers.

Studio to Keep Big Bill Boyd For Out-of-Door Films In the Future

By HARRISON CARROLL

Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate.

HOLLYWOOD, July 10.

The big game in Hollywood today is guessing which way the cinema wind will blow. A good many producers think the modified western is due for a run of popularity. RKO-Pathe, for instance, will keep Bill Boyd for out-of-door pictures in the future.

His next after "Suicide Fleet" will be "Timber Beast," a story of the lumber camps. Marion Jackson, veteran scenarist, is the author, and she is collaborating with Don Ryan on the adaptation.

Bill Boyd

In the meanwhile, Bill and Mrs. Boyd (Dorothy Sebastian), are away on their boat somewhere. The case of these two is a strange one. They practically have dropped out of Hollywood social life, spending most of their time on the water, and apparently not missing the parties a bit.

LIFE OF A SAILOR

This is as good a time as any to relay Dave Hillman's comment about Hollywood's new craze for yachting.

"They take to it naturally," he explains, "because the sailors say, 'Aye, aye, sir!'"

LATEST GOSSIP

The Portuguese government has awarded Adolph Zukor the grand cross of the Order of Santiago for his service in presenting the first Portuguese talkie . . . And speaking of emblems, whose Sigma Chi fraternity pin is the newly separated Dorothy Lee wearing? Some say it belongs to a well-known football star . . . Robert Sherwood is writing the titles for the film Douglas Fairbanks took on his oriental trip . . . Maybe you don't know them yet, but red-headed Roberta Gale and Eric Linden, of the "Are These Our Children?" cast, are seeing things through the same eyes these days . . . Though she still is unable to sit up, Evalyn Knapp expects to return home from the hospital at the end of the week. . . . John Miles, who works for Don Eddy at RKO, writes the best feature story of any publicity man in Hollywood . . . A certain chubby, blonde actress could get a release from her present contract and sign the same day with another company if she wished to. But she prefers to draw a salary check and enjoy a vacation until September. She figures the other company still will want her then. . . . Warren Hymer is quitting Fox and will go East. Rumor says he will work there for Al Woods . . . The question is, what in?

HONEYMOON'S OVER

The Honolulu idyl of Carole Lombard and William Powell is nearing its end. They will be back here August 1 for Carole to start work opposite Dick Arlen in "No One Man." After that, the studio plans to put her with Buddy Rogers in "Mary Makes a Call." Both heroines are lively ladies. It looks as if Stuart Walker will direct the latter picture, which is taken from a story by Homer Miles.

Frederic Burton Plays In Quillan Film

Frederic Burton, who is featured in Eddie Quillan's new picture, "Sweepstakes," portrayed the comedy role of Cousin Ebert in both the screen version of "Ruggles of Red Gap" and the stage play. Lillian Leighton, who also appears in the cast in "Sweepstakes," will be remembered as Ma Pettingill in the old silent film which started Virginia Valli and Rod LaRocque on the road to screen fame.

Hoover Talks On Debt in Newsie

THE GLOBE TROTTER

Through the Hearst Metrotone News Globe Trotter, President Hoover, speaking at the White House, makes official announcement of the international agreement on the war debt moratorium. This message is contained in the current issue.

Another picture shows John D. Rockefeller celebrating his ninety-second birthday at his estate at Pocantico Hills, N. Y., with his son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr. The oil king is shown in many scenes, and finally giving a shiny new dime to an aviator who has given him his first ride in an airplane.

A new thrill in aviation comes from Leroy, N. Y., where an airplane tows three gliders, all at one time, over the town.

Pictures show the start from Paris of the famous bicycle tour de France. There are more than 100 entrants and the course is 1,600 miles long.

Berlin shows us an exhibition of those humorous looking, but lovable, little dachshunds in which there are dozens of entries. Owners walk their elongated pets around in the contest for blue ribbons and there's a laugh a second as the solemn parade passes the camera.

Something new comes out of the Northwest—a rolleo. A thrilling and exciting contest is held at Longview, Wash., and is participated in by lumbermen from all over the West. The scenes show free-for-all jousting on logs.

A novel subject shows a crowd of boys and girls holding a singing festival on top of a hotel in Brooklyn.

Home Again

Gloria Swanson, back in the Land of Liberty again after a European sojourn, is due in Hollywood August 1 to play the star role in "Tonight or Never."

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Hot news bulletin from the Professional Players—office, Alvin Theater—states that "Fig Leaf," styled a satirical American comedy, has been added to the list of Professional Plays. The author keeps his identity hidden, but promises to break down and confess, if the play comes out a success. If it shall prove to be a flop, he pledges himself to return one-third of the advance royalty he has received. That, if you are interested, amounts to $1,500. Looks like good business for him, anyway, with $1,000 if it shall be a flop. But we guess he earned it. Just try to get some producer to give you $1,500 advance royalty for one of YOUR plays and you'll learn what work is.

Last night at Chautauqua, where many Pittsburgh folk spend the summer, there was a presentation of Shaw's "Arms and the Man," by the Chautauqua Repertory Players, who will repeat the production Saturday night. Members of the company and technical staff are from the Cleveland Playhouse. Other productions of the season will include "John Ferguson," by St. John Ervine.

State Bridge Held Peril on Harmony Trolley Road

WELFARE FUND SUPPLIES MILK TO NEEDY PUPILS

STATE BRIDGE HELD MENACE ON RAILWAY

Span Included in Reports Of General Disrepair Along Right-of-Way

Roadbed and right-of-way conditions of disrepair of the Harmony branch of the Pittsburgh, Harmony, Butler and New Castle Railway Company extend beyond company property to a State Highway Department bridge, an investigation disclosed today.

The bridge, located at Allen, Butler County, on the Zelienople-New Castle road, is in a state of disrepair, and holes in the bridge floor endanger motorists, according to residents of the district who have complained to the Butler County Commissioners.

The complainants said that the bridge was originally owned by Butler County, which built it in 1904. Recently, however, the span was taken over by the state Highway Department.

CONDITIONS CITED

At the time the railway was built, in 1907, the road was given the use of the bridge with the understanding that the company keep it in repair. Residents said that lack of proper drainage and of replacement and care have resulted in the bridge being partly wrecked by the weather and by heavy traffic.

Reinforced steel-concrete braces under the bridge, which crosses the Conoquenessing Creek near Zelienople, have crumbled until the wire and steel forms are visible. One hole in the floor of the bridge is so big that a boy, or the wheel of an automobile, could pass through it to the creek below.

Other parts of the line both in the vicinity of Evans City and Bradford Woods show examples of insufficient inspection. Near Bradford Woods, part of the bases of the rails are rusting away, and in various sections along the right-of-way ties have rotted until they no longer hold the spikes that confine the rails.

COUNTY TAXES FALLING FAR BEHIND

City, School and Water Levy Collections Slow; Jail Penalties Ignored

Tax collections in the county are running considerably short of last year, and city and school taxes and water charges are also lagging slightly, although not in quite as large proportion.

County tax collections were started late this year due to uncertainty regarding state legislation which eliminated the occupation tax on property owners. To date $1,380,286 has been paid at the county treasurer's office, a decrease of $623,428 from the same period last year.

COLLECTIONS LAG

Total collections of city and school taxes and water rents for 1931 to date amount to $24,747,861 compared with $25,410,562 in the same period last year. This decrease is small when it is considered that the city tax rate was reduced one-half mill this year.

Although the delinquent tax collector of the county and each borough and township tax collector have the right to put in jail citizens who do not pay their taxes, this course of action has not been followed by the county collector for many years. There have been a few cases in the boroughs where tax debtors have been jailed.

CITY LENIENT

Delinquent tax collections in the city showed an increase during the early part of the year. It has never been the policy to send delinquent taxpayers to jail in the city and it is also not the rule to press the sale of the owner's goods except in extreme cases.

At the recent session of the Legislature, an effort was made to have removed the clause in an act which provides that a citizen may be put in jail for not paying county taxes. This failed, largely, it is said, because of opposition from the rural districts.

HAIRCUTS FREE TO NEEDY

More than 200 children received free haircuts yesterday in an improvized barber shop in the Salvation Army headquarters, 608 Amity street, Homestead. Nineteen members of the Homestead Barbers' Association volunteered their services on their Thursday afternoon off.

The children, up to 16, registered names and addresses and were given numbers to wait their turn. Before they return for their next haircut in two or three weeks, their neediness will be investigated.

The barbers who gave their services yesterday were Nicholas Scoochera, chairman; John Siragusa, Michael Homol, Alex Nitchoff, Spear Solon, John Palaskas, Frank Spinelli, Mike Dreska, M. F. Rushnak, George Mellore, Nicholas Todorowff, Chris Hioneds, John Gretch, James and Harry Schwartz, Harold Hough, John Bruno, John Hunziker and Thomas Wilkens. Alex Kolechta, of Greensprings avenue, Homeville, served children in his neighborhood.

DISTRIBUTION WILL START ON MONDAY

City Studies Plan to Finance Delivery; Action Follows Blocking of School Fund

The Welfare Fund of Allegheny County will distribute milk to needy school children beginning Monday, pending passage by Cty Council of legislation to finance the distribution, it was revealed today by Dr. C. B. Maits, director of Public Health. Enactment of the legislation is awaiting a legal opinion by City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt.

Plans for the distribution were completed at a meeting yesterday attended by Ben G. Graham, superintendent of schools; Dr. H. B. Burns, director of school hygiene; Dr. A. M. Kerr, assistant to Dr. Burns; Carl McKee, school purchasing agent, and Dr. Maits.

Dr. Maits said the number of children to be supplied would be approximately 7,300, at an estimated cost of $20,000.

The Board of Education supplied milk to needy school children during the school term and appropriated $15,000 for the summer months. The appropriation was held illegal by J. Rodgers McCreery, solicitor.

18 DEPORTEES LEAVE CITY

Eighteen aliens, men, women and children, whose deportation was ordered, left last night for New York, where today they were turned over to immigration officials at Ellis Island. All are Mexicans, except one, an Italian. In the party were 11 voluntary deportees, who asked to be sent to their native country because they were destitute.

Included in the party was a family consisting of husband, wife and three children from Donora, and a widow and four children from Etna. The others were deported because of illegal entry or other violations of the immigration laws.

MONEY BLAMED IN DIVORCE

Mrs. Mary J. McLaughlin, of 211 East Tenth avenue, Homestead, who was granted a divorce from Francis G. McLaughlin by Judge Samuel H. Gardner, told the court during divorce proceedings that her husband married her because he thought she had money.

She said:

"He said he had a hell of a time getting me and that I was harder to get rid of. He thought I had money when he married me and when he found out I did not he didn't want me. He told me he was tired of me. He gave me a set of black eyes."

They were married April 13, 1927, and he left her May 31, 1929, she testified.

SEWER NEARING COMPLETION

Completion of the $120,000 Wightman and Bartlett streets sewer to provide flood protection for the Forbes street and Murray avenue section is expected not later than August 15, I. Charles Palmer, city public works engineer, said today.

The sewer has been constructed through Bartlett street, Murdoch street, Darlington road and part of Wightman street.

A large amount of asphalt resurfacing was necessary because of the sewer laying and all this has been done, Palmer said, with the exception of parts of Darlington road and Wightman street.

Original estimated cost of the improvement was $90,000. Conditions becoming apparent after the appropriation was made will make necessary an additional expenditure of $30,000, according to Palmer.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 10.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Editorials have been blaming France for not wanting to cancel the debt. Well, France receives $95,000,000 more than she pays out to England and the United States. France is better off today than all of them. Why? Because of hard work and watching the pennies. France is a good deal like Amos on the radio: "Now wait a minute, Andy, that scheme of yours sounds mighty big and fine now, but in the end where is we gettin' off." The United States is exactly like Andy. Anything comes up: "Oh, sho, sho, send it over C. O. D. We will pay fur it or sumpin. Come on Vanilla, les go fishin."

COUNTY FORCED TO REVISE TUBE PLAN

P. & W. Va. Railroad Refuses To Turn Over Necessary Land; Reach Compromise

County engineers today were preparing new plans for the proposed conversion of the Wabash Railroad Bridge and tunnel into a vehicular traffic tube connecting the South Hills and downtown.

The original plans went by the boards yesterday in a long and noisy conference between officials of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad and the County Commissioners held in the latters' offices yesterday afternoon.

MEETING CLOSED TO PUBLIC

The meeting was a commissioners' "executive session" and a county employe was stationed in the hallway to keep out the public and the newspapermen.

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong explained after the meeting that he did not want anybody there except the railroad men because he said:

"It is hot and stuffy in the conference room. This was a matter that had to be ironed out with the railroad people, before it comes up at the regular meeting."

Commissioner C. C. McGovern said:

"There was nothing secret about the matter discussed. I don't see any reason for barring newspapermen."

DEMAND ABSOLUTE TITLE

The matter discussed, according to Armstrong and McGovern, was whether the railroad will give the county a fee simple—or absolute title to property adjoining the Wabash Terminal, which would be used for ramps of the new bridge. The railroad officials wanted to reserve overhead rights and the county only easement rights over their property.

Finally, the railroaders agreed to give the county fee simple title to a 60-foot piece of property from the downtown end of the bridge to Fourth avenue, McGovern said, which would allow room for construction of the ramps.

Norman F. Brown, director of the Department of Public Works, was instructed to have plans prepared to conform with this agreement and present them at another conference, the date for which was not set.

About 300 schools in the city and county participated.

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., July 10.—With drawn revolver Sheriff Harry C. Smith, of Tuscarawas County, last night dragged Carl Guloid, Canton Communist, from the steps of the Courthouse here and to the County Jail, several blocks away. Guloid, a member of the Trade Unity League, had sought to make a speech from the steps in defiance of the sheriff's orders.

A crowd of 100 followers milled about the sheriff when he arrested Guloid, and the officer drew his gun. The crowd then fell back, while the sheriff and Deputy Sheriff Carl Scott and Patrolman Brough Albaugh got the prisoner to jail.

MIX DAUGHTER LEAVES MATE

LOS ANGELES, July 10.—(AP.)—A. P. Michael Narlian, attorney for Mrs. Olive Mix, former wife of Tom Mix, film and circus star, confirmed reports today that Ruth Jane Mix Gilmore, daughter of the couple, has separated from her husband, Douglas Gilmore, in New York.

Narlian said Mrs. Mix talked over the telephone with her daughter in New York, and it was revealed Mrs. Gilmore plans to return here shortly and file suit for annulment of the marriage.

Mrs. Gilmore and her husband, a film actor, eloped to Yuma, Ariz. They were married there June 9, 1930.

Narlian said he was informed Mrs. Gilmore is en route to Indiana with her father, whose circus is playing in that state.

Mrs. Gilmore is about 18. The annulment suit, Narlian indicated, will be filed on grounds the girl was under 18, when married.

Auto Dealer Killed Hunting in Woods

STEUBENVILLE, O., July 10.—John S. Cookson, 55, automobile dealer, was found dead slumped over a log in the woods five miles north of the city early today. He had been missing since Thursday afternoon.

Coroner A. L. Bell gave a verdict of accidental death, stating Cookson apparently shot himself by accident while hunting groundhogs.

SEE BLACKMAIL IN POOL DEATHS

TOLEDO, O., July 10.—(AP.)—A blackmail gang was blamed today for the slaying of Earl Truesdale, 20, and Thelma Woods, 17, of Lima, by Coroner Frank G. Kreft after he questioned James May, 22, former Toledo State Hospital inmate, who is charged with killing Truesdale.

Couples parking late at night on the brink of the Lima quarry pool in which the battered bodies of Truesdale and Miss Woods were found last month, were preyed upon by blackmailers during the last year, Coroner Kreft said he learned in talking with May.

Kreft believes Truesdale may have argued with one of the blackmailers and was struck on the head. The attack on Miss Woods probably followed, the coroner said. He added he was convinced of May's innocence.

May was returned to Lima late yesterday.

HEARING SLATED FOR BONDSMAN

Joseph Roth, of 518 Fourth avenue, Braddock, alleged professional bondsmen, is to be given a hearing before Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan on a charge of perjury. He was arrested yesterday by county detectives for alleged failure to list judgments and liens against his property in January, 1930, when he furnished $1,000 bond for Frank H. Moore, charged with fraudulent conversion.

According to Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk, Moore failed to appear when called for trial and his bond was forfeited. Investigation by Clunk revealed that Roth's home and property, established as security for the bond, was subject to judgments in addition to the $9,100 first mortgage which had been listed by the bondsman. The assessed valuation of the property was given as $15,300.

FIRM PROTESTS DISMANTLING BY DRYS

Beverage and Ice Plant Counsel Declares Action 'Bordered on Anarchy'

The dismantlement of fixtures and equipment of the plant of the Labor Products and Ice Company, Brackenridge, by government prohibition agents last Friday, was said yesterday by Maj. Robert M. Ewing, counsel for the company, to have been "wholly unjustified by law." He declared the action "bordered on anarchy."

The declaration of Maj. Ewing, a former special deputy attorney general for Pennsylvania, was made before Federal Judge R. M. Gibson, in his closing argument for an injunction to enjoin Prohibition Administrator J. D. Pennington and Deputy Administrator R. S. Krause from dismantling the plant and from interfering with the manufacture of cereal beverages and ice.

DECISION RESERVED

Judge Gibson, after a day spent in hearing testimony of witnesses for the plaintiff company and the prohibition officials, reserved decision. United States Attorney Louis E. Graham and Assistant United States Attorney Lloyd W. Bryan opposed the injunction.

It was testified that Pennington, following the seizure of the plant, ordered the dismantlement of fixtures and equipment used in manufacturing cereal beverages and ice.

The plant, which is operated under a government permit to manufacture near-beer, was raided following the seizure of a truck loaded with 27 barrels of alleged high test beer. Prohibition agents testified they saw the truck driven from the yard of the plant. Witnesses for the company testified they saw no truck leave the yard. Agents said they made examination of the truck tire impressions in the plant yard and at the place the truck was seized and they were similar.

SCORES DRY OFFICIALS

Monday, following the seizure of the plant, the court granted a temporary injunction directing prohibition authorities to permit manufacture of ice. At yesterday's hearing it was testified at 50 to 60 tons of ice are manufactured daily.

Maj. Ewing, in declaring that the manner of seizure and dismantlement was arbitrary to law, said that the prohibition officials first should have instituted a forfeiture libel and obtained authority from the court before proceeding to dismantle the plant. He also said that proper procedure would have been citation for revocation of the government permit the company holds.

CITY CRITICIZES PAVIA'S WORK

Denial that the improvement of Fifteenth street between Penn avenue and Pike street complied with specifications, and allegations that the concrete base was of insufficient depth and was unevenly laid, are contained in an answer filed in Common Pleas Court on behalf of the City of Pittsburgh and City Controller James P. Kerr to the suit of Dominick Pavia.

Pavia asked a mandatory order for payment of $17,834, claimed for the contract work and extras, alleging the Controller refused to countersign payment after the final estimate was approved by Director of Public Works Edward Lang.

Core drilling after the approval revealed that the concrete base was less than specified, according to the allegations.

The answer denied the work was satisfactory to the Director, although he signed the final estimate. The drills showed that, instead of an eight-inch concrete base specified, bases were uneven and in layers, instead of in a solid mass, and ran from 5.75 inches to 9.625 inches in thickness, it is asserted.

And Rudy Ruins Another Dream For Our Flappers

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

World's most eligible crooner gets married.

It's a terrible blow to millions of eligible flappers. We never thought he would be so Rudy.

And we always thought he was singing for us alone.

Now we will have to tune in on somebody else. One by one, our idols are being shattered. Girls, we never did recover from the shock of seeing John Gilbert's neck when he played Romeo.

Wallace Beery thrilled our hearts when he gave the ant poison to Sadie. Then we discovered he was married or divorced or something or other.

It shows that romance elapses by default when our heroes get married. The sleeping patootie dreams of Prince Charming on a milk-white steed with a waxed mustache and bright eyes.

But if the prince is already married he might as well be on a mule with a blue beard and flat feet.

Yes, sir, if Rudy was doing the listening instead of the broadcasting he would hear some sobbing that would make the roar of Niagara sound like the whimpering of a cricket's adenoids.

THE PENALTY OF GRAY HAIR

Gray hair—age—slipping. All these unpleasant ideas seem to go together. Yet, it is not at all necessary. Gray Hair often comes to a young head and people who have it are neither old nor incapable. But how often you hear people say, "Why, she has gray hair!" and—she is on the shelf.

This penalty need no longer handicap the woman who uses Canute Water. This is a clear, spring-like water, of wonderful properties which actually restore hair to its original girlhood color. No complicated "color plan"; no danger of getting brunette shade when your hair is blonde. Not only the one kind but the one bottle is enough. It really is surprising what successful, youthifying results it gives.

Apply Canute Water yourself, in the privacy of your own home. Many women in town are doing the same thing; they simply do not mention it. You need not mention it either. Just buy a bottle from any good druggist—and get rid of the "age penalty" in gray hair. Canute Water is so safe, so scientific and sure that your dealer knows it will satisfy you; if not, he will refund your money. Sold and recommended by Kaufmann's and all Mayflower Drug Stores or your own druggists. The Canute Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

DR. COPELAND :-: Interesting History Of the 'Persian Apple'

Peaches Valuable Source of Important Vitamins

Dr. Copeland says the peach prevents scurvy, helps keep the body protected against infectious diseases.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Former Health Commissioner of New York City, United States Senator from New York

It is believed the peach was originally cultivated in China, many centuries ago. It was grown in Persia, where it was known as the "Persian apple."

The fruit was well liked and soon became known as "a peach of a fruit." Undoubtedly this was the origin of our expression describing anything pleasing or agreeable.

After traveling about in various countries and climates, the peach finally reached the shores of the Pacific. A large portion of the peaches of the United States are grown in California, which affords an ideal climate for the growth of this fruit.

The peach is a most desirable fruit. In addition to its pleasant taste and ease in digestion, it contains many nutritive substances. Chief among these are important mineral salts, particularly iron.

It possesses alkaline elements in excess of the acid-forming elements. It is therefore of great help in keeping the blood alkaline. Peaches are a good source of easily applied energy.

Peaches, as is true of most fruits, are composed largely of water and cellulose. Cellulose is important because of its mechanical laxative effect.

This fruit is a valuable source of important vitamins. Vitamin C is found in peaches. Hence it is considered an "anti-scorbutic," a food which will prevent scurvy. It helps to keep the body protected against infectious diseases.

Peaches may be purchased in the fresh form, as dried fruit or canned. As a fresh fruit, it is usually served at table with either milk or cream, and in this manner its nutritive value is increased.

There is a common belief that peaches tend to produce an acid condition of the body. Contrary to this belief, most acid fruits are base forming. They have a tendency to decrease rather than increase the acidity of the body.

BUILD RUNWAYS AT BETTIS FIELD

Work has been started on 25,000 additional square yards of runways, aprons and taxi strips at Bettis Field, it was announced yesterday. The improvement is in pursuance of the Curtiss-Wright Airports Corporation's policy of keeping ahead of flying requirements at its airports.

The contract for the surfacing material was awarded to the Koppers Products Company, Pittsburgh. The use of this material is the result of three years' experimenting. The immediate installation of another hangar also is contemplated.

W. VA. COUNTIES TO PAY DRYS

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 10.—(AP.)—A plan for a force of prohibition officers to be paid by municipalities, counties and combinations of counties, has been announced by State Prohibition Commissioner W. G. Brown.

The plan, the Commissioner indicated, was inaugurated because of the decreased appropriation for the department, which was cut from $59,000 to $25,000 annually by the 1931 Legislature, and was being put into effect in response to a strong demand he said was coming from all sections of the state.

By reducing his office force and practicing other economies, Brown said he would be able to retain two deputy commissioners, but said other deputies will be paid by the localities they serve.

Blind Girl Sees After Operation

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., July 10.—(AP.)—Dr. J. E. Blaydes, Bluefield eye surgeon, said reading tests showed that Rhoda Sprague, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Sprague, of Elkins, a student in the State School for the Deaf and Blind, had recovered normal vision, following an operation.

PRUDENCE PENNY :-: Answers Vexing Problems Of What to Serve

Prudence Penny's Recipes

CREOLE MACARONI—Boil half pound macaroni in salted water for 20 minutes, adding 1 tablespoon butter and a small onion stock with 2 cloves. When done, drain the macaroni through a colander without breaking the lengths. Season well with salt and pepper to taste. Heat 1 tablespoon butter and blend with 1 tablespoon flour. When browned, slowly add ½ can tomatoes or 6 ripe tomatoes which have been chopped fine in their own juice. Cook slowly for 10 minutes, stirring well; then, as the sauce begins to boil, stir in the macaroni, taking care not to break the lengths. Allow to come to a boil once, and serve hot.

* * *

ROLLED BEEF BIRDS—Have 6 slices round steak cut about ¾-inch thick. Place the meat on a floured board and pound each piece on both sides until the meat is tender. Chop a medium-sized onion, together with 2 slices fat salt pork into small pieces, and place a spoonful of this mixture in the center of each piece of steak. Season with salt and pepper. Roll each steak slice around the onion and pork filling and fasten the ends together with toothpicks or skewers. Have the pan very hot with 2 tablespoons of fat. Fry the steaks, turning frequently until the meat is done. Remove the toothpicks before serving.

ESCALLOPED SPINACH—Wash half a peck spinach carefully to remove all grit. Cook in an uncovered kettle without the addition of any water, for 10 minutes. In the meantime, prepare a white sauce by melting 1½ tablespoons butter and blending it with 2 tablespoons flour seasoned with ½ teaspoon salt and a dash of pepper; gradually add 2 cups milk and stir until thickened. Add the chopped whites of 2 hard-cooked eggs. Drain the spinach, season with salt and pepper and turn into a hot serving dish. Cover with the white sauce, and press the yolks of the 2 eggs through a coarse sieve over the top of the white sauce.

* * *

PEANUT BRITTLE DELIGHT is the name and one that the dish deserves. Beat 1 cup heavy cream and fold in 1 cup sliced, diced, canned pineapple, 1½ cups boiled rice, ¾ cup ground peanut brittle, 8 marshmallows, cut small, and ½ cup of the pineapple syrup. Chill. This recipe will serve eight people.

* * *

BAKED STUFFED TOMATO—Six tomatoes, 2 tablespoons butter, ½ tablespoon finely chopped onion, ½ cup finely chopped celery, ½ cup soft bread crumbs, salt and pepper, 1 egg, slightly beaten, buttered cracker crumbs.

Wipe the tomatoes and remove thin slice from stem end. Take out seeds and pulp and drain off most of the liquid. Sprinkle with salt, invert and let stand for 30 minutes or longer.

Cook onion in butter for five minutes. Add bread crumbs, pulp from the tomatoes, celery, salt and pepper to taste. Cook five minutes, add egg, cook one minute and stuff tomatoes. Place in buttered pan, sprinkle with cracker crumbs and bake 20 minutes in a hot oven.

* * *

FRUIT PUNCH TO SERVE FIFTY—One cup water, 2 cups sugar, 1 cup tea infusion, 1 quart charged water, 2 cups fruit syrup, 1 cup lemon juice, 2 cups orange juice, 2 cups crushed pineapple, 1 cup maraschino cherries, ice water.

Boil sugar and water five minutes, add tea, fruit syrup, lemon juice, orange juice and pineapple; let stand 30 minutes, strain and add ice water to make 1½ gallons of liquid. Add cherries and charged water. Serve in punch bowl with large piece of ice. The fruit syrup might be strawberry, loganberry or pineapple juice combined.

* * *

PEANUT BUTTER BISCUITS—Two cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons peanut butter, ¾ cup milk.

Sift together the flour, baking powder, sugar and salt. Add the liquid slowly to make a soft dough. Roll or pat out with hands on floured board to about ½ inch in thickness. Cut with biscuit cutter dipped in flour. Place on slightly greased pan, cover with waxed paper and place in electric refrigerator until ready to bake. Bake in electric range oven at 475 degrees F. for 10 to 12 minutes, until golden brown.

* * *

STUFFED PEAR SALAD—Six halved canned pears, ½ cup cottage cheese, 6 halves canned pineapple, ½ cup diced celery, ½ cup salad dressing.

Chill ingredients. Arrange pears on lettuce. Stuff cavities with cheese and arrange pineapple slices (cut in fourths) around slides. Sprinkle with celery. Top with dressing. Serve at once.

* * *

FEATHER CUP CAKES—Cream 4 tablespoons of butter and add gradually ⅔ cup sugar, mixing thoroughly. Add an unbeaten egg and stir well. Measure 1½ cups cake flour, after sifting it. Then sift together with 2 teaspoons baking powder and ⅛ teaspoon salt. Add to first mixture alternately with ½ cup rich milk, stirring, not beating. Add a teaspoon of vanilla. Put half the batter into small greased muffin tins. To the remainder of the batter add

* * *

CARAMEL MIXTURE—4 tablespoons soft butter, 2-3 cup dark brown sugar, ¼ cup broken pecans.

Mix ingredients and press into soft dough. Roll up until mixture forms roll 1½ inches in diameter. Use sharp knife and cut off ½-inch slices. Place flat side up, in greased pan and bake 12 minutes in moderate oven.

* * *

RED RASPBERRY TART FILLING—3 cups berries, 2 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons butter.

Mix berries, flour, nutmeg and sugar. Pour into small tart pans fitted with unbaked pastry. Dot with butter and cover with criss-cross strips of unbaked pastry. Bake 20 minutes in moderate oven.

* * *

CHOCOLATE MOUSSE—Melt 2 squares unsweetened chocolate over hot water; add ½ cup powdered sugar, and gradually add 1 cup milk. Stir over fire until the boiling point is reached, then add ¾ tablespoon granulated gelatine which has been soaked in 3 tablespoons cold water, ¾ cup sugar and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Chill until the mixture thickens, then beat until light. Fold in 2 cups cream, whipped stiff. Freeze in drawer of mechanical refrigerator, or pack in salt and ice to freeze.

* * *

ALMOND TARTS—Beat the yolks of 4 eggs until thick and lemon-colored; add sugar gradually, then fold in egg whites beaten until stiff and dry. Use 1 cup of powdered sugar. Add 2 squares of grated chocolate or 4 tablespoons of cocoa, 1-3 cup of finely ground almonds, 1 teaspoon baking powder and 4-5 cup of finely crushed graham cracker crumbs. Pour into buttered custard cups or tins. Split and fill with sweetened and flavored whipped cream.

* * *

DEVILED TOMATOES—Cream 4 tablespoons butter, add 2 teaspoons powdered sugar, 1 teaspoon mustard, ¼ teaspoon salt, few grains of cayenne. Then add the yolk of 1 hard-boiled egg rubbed to a paste, a slightly beaten egg, and 2 tablespoons of vinegar. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until thickened. Then pour over 3 tomatoes, sliced and sauteed.

* * *

MACAROON CREAM is easy to make, and you oughtn't to have the slightest difficulty with it. Follow the directions exactly—the cook who can guess at quantities and still achieve masterly results is a rarity, and she can never convince me that Lady Luck isn't at her elbow; and Lady Luck always was a fickle jade! Soak a tablespoon of granulate gelatin in ¼ cup of cold water. Make a custard of 2 cups scalded milk, 3 egg yolks, ½ cup sugar and ⅛ teaspoon of salt. Add the gelatin and strain into a bowl set in ice water. Add ⅔ cup macaroons, rolled and dried, and a teaspoon of vanilla, stirring until it begins to thicken. Then add 3 egg whites beaten stiff. Mold, chill and serve garnished with macaroons.

* * *

CHOCOLATE INDIANS—¾ cup flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1½ teaspoons salt, 2 squares chocolate, 1-3 cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 3 eggs, ½ teaspoon valilla, ½ cup dates, ½ cup nuts.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt and sift three times. Add shortening to melted chocolate and blend. Beat eggs well, add sugar, then chocolate mixture, beating well. Then add flour, vanilla, dates finely cut and walnut meats chopped and toasted. Bake in two greased pans in a 350 degree oven 35 minutes, cut in squares before removing from the pan.

* * *

ROAST LEG OF LAMB WITH VEGETABLES—Prepare a leg of lamb by washing, pat dry and insert a small piece of garlic under the handle bone. Place the lamb in a roasting pan and baste with hot fat. Season with salt and pepper and roast for ½ hour. Then add 12 small potatoes and the same amount of small white onions. Baste well. Allow to roast slowly for another hour. Arrange the lamb and the vegetables on a serving dish. Pour a cup of hot water and the juice of a lemon into the pan and strain, after bringing to the boiling point. Pour the sauce over the lamb, garnish with minced parsley and serve.

* * *

BEET SALAD—Dice 6 cooked beets and mix with 1 cup of finely diced celery and ⅔ cup of string beans that are cooked and diced. Marinate in French dressing and chill. Before serving mix with ½ cup of mayonnaise and 4 teaspoons of horseradish. Mix well and serve.

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By SALLY MARTIN

Will An Ex-Husband Make A Good Husband?

Would you marry a grass widower?

A man who had long ago forgotten the woman he once led to the altar with tender promises?

Or would you figure that because he had forgotten her he would some day forget you, too?

That's a question Rose Marie is up against—

And she's asking for help.

"Dear Sally Martin:

"I have long been a reader of your column, and I have sometimes taken the advice you give to other people, and profited by it. But now the time has come when I need help with my own personal problem. So here I am. I hope that you can help me because my whole future may depend on what you have to say.

"I am keeping company with a man who has been married before, and is divorced. And, although he is everything that my ideal man should be, the thought keeps coming into my mind that he has been married before, and it worries me.

"The woman he was formerly married to left him of her own accord, a long time ago, and he has long ago forgotten her. And that is what I need help about.

"The thought haunts me that he might some day forget me, too. He gave her the same promises he gives me, and loved her well enough to marry her, just as he does me.

DOUBTFUL ABOUT HIM

"Do you think he will forget me like he has forgotten her? I am inclined to be very sincere and true to one man, and it would wreck my whole life if that man forgot me.

"I am 25 years old, and have waited a long time for the right man, because I wanted to be sure of my life partner. He seems to be fine, but this doubt keeps creeping into my mind all the time till I don't know what to do.

"I would appreciate it so much if you would give me your advice, because my whole life depends on this step I am about to take. Shall I marry this man (whom I admit I love) or shall I try to forget him, and wait for someone who has never been married before?

"ROSE MARIE."

Will he forget you?

Why should he, as long as you give him "a square deal"?

SENSIBLE MAN

As a matter of fact, he hasn't "forgotten" the other woman. He has simply put her out of his life. He has faced his heartache, fought his bitterness, and gotten through with it at last. Their life together failed. She undoubtedly had her reasons. He had his. But it's all over now—and there's nothing more to be done about it. Her memory must come back, but it no longer brings pain. And, like a healthy spirit should, he is going on with life, trying a new deal. He's "through with her," not because he's heartless but because he's sensible.

Why should you argue from such a divorce experience that he will some day "forget you?" It seems to me that you are deliberately and morbidly wishing grief on yourself, Rose Marie. And if you wish it long enough, you'll surely get it.

Trust his love. . . It's as fine and worthy as any man's. That's my slant on this situation.

But maybe you think differently, Stranger. Maybe you think that a man who has put aside his memories and gone on to a new life with another woman will forget her, too.

How about it? Do you think Rose Marie should marry this man?

Or will he let her down if she does?

Successful Business Means Contentment of Employes, Says Fay King

A FEW YEARS AGO WHEN BOSSES WERE MAKING MONEY HAND OVER FIST THEY DIDN'T ALWAYS INCREASE THE SALARIES OF THOSE WHO DESERVEDLY ASKED FOR IT
I'LL HAVE TO LOOK FOR A CHEAPER ROOM, AND A FORCED MONTH OFF WITHOUT PAY, IS WORSE THAN NO VACATION!
EVEN A SMALL SALARY CUT IS A GREAT HARDSHIP FOR MANY
YOU HEAR OF THESE THINGS AND SUCH A DEPRESSION SETS IN, YOU DON'T FEEL LIKE SPENDING!
FAY KING

By FAY KING.

The most valuable asset of an old-fashioned firm is its "good will."

This means its years of business integrity, the satisfaction of its customers, the loyalty of its employes.

Show me a successful business and I'll show you contented employes.

There is an intangible something in the very atmosphere of a firm where employes are treated fairly. It communicates itself to the customers they contact and has much to do with the customers' confidence and satisfaction.

Customers are as instinctively repelled by a feeling of uncertainty and discontent in employes.

The hardship and worry inflicted upon employes by the salary cuts has much to do with the listless spirit of spending which makes these dull times.

Heart of a Wife -:- Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Mother Graham Reproves Junior for Walking New Baby

My heart started in the direction of my boots as my mother-in-law sharply reproved Junior for waking up the baby. It was the one thing I had feared in my small son's homecoming for the first time since the baby arrived, that he would be blamed justly or unjustly for something happening to the baby, and thus have the seeds of resentment against her sowed in his young mind.

Not that I meant to encourage my first-born in talking above his little sister's carriage in tones loud enough to waken her. I knew that I should have to train him in gentleness of speech and action when near her. But I could do that in my own time and in my own way. To me at this moment his reaction to his grandmother's reproof was of infinitely more importance than the fact that the baby had been awakened.

"You ought to be ashamed of yourself, you naughty boy," his grandmother went on. "A little baby must never be awakened. There! there, Granzie's precious. Don't cry."

Junior looked at her in amazement that would have been ludicrous had it not been for a certain pathetic panic one sensed in his stare. Always he has held assured first place in his grandmother's heart and though sometimes she reproves him when irritated she always has repented immediately afterward, and her comforting phrase, "there, there! Grandma's precious. Don't cry!" had often been addressed to himself.

That he thought at first she had spoken to him was plain, and I had seen him brace himself for the half defiant "I'm not crying," with which he in the last year has denied what he patently considers unmanly emotion. But his grandmother was not even looking at him. She had flown to the carriage and was jogging it gently, while from her lips came the familiar buzzing sound, "Zhs, zhs," like the humming of a bee, with which she used to soothe Junior to sleep.

His sturdy little figure seemed rooted to the floor as we saw realization of the new regime creep over him. I knew that his grandmother already had forgotten her reproof to him. Like so many old people, the tendrils of her affection reached out toward the smallest and most helpless of the young things near her, dwarfing for the instant her equally strong affection for her other grandchildren.

But to poor Junior, the moment was a tragedy, the first which he had experienced since the terrible time when he was kidnaped at Grace Draper's instigation. But he long ago had forgotten his terror of that time, especially as he had received nothing but kindness from the man who had taken him. This experience was fresh, vivid, and I knew that it would be a long time before he would forget it. I could have groaned aloud as I realized what a setback to my plans for Junior's amity toward the new baby, my mother-in-law's careless reproof had been.

There was absolutely nothing any of us could do for the moment, however. We have so drilled the child in respect to his grandmother, "bending backward" in our care never to thwart her or dispute her dicta when he is present, that neither Dicky nor I could speak now without pulling down a structure which we had been building since his birth. But I knew from Dicky's somber face—I had flashed one helpless glance at him at his mother's cutting speech—that he shared my uneasiness and sympathy for our small son.

I was conscious that all eyes save those of his oblivious grandmother were upon the small boy receiving the first real jolt of his sheltered life, for he had been too young to do any thinking concerning his kidnaping experience. There was sympathetic indignation in all eyes save those of Roderick which, bright with excited expectancy were fixed upon his cousin. That he expected an explosion of some sort, was evident.

But Junior took his blow as a boxer might have done. It staggered him, but he snapped back into position, and looking over at his cousin, said loudly:

"Well! Rod, I guess we don't have to ask any more what that woman meant when she said my nose would be out of joint. See mine? It's all over at one side of my face."

He tapped his nose with an absurd little air of bravado, and his grandmother looked at him with startled questioning eyes.

Reaping What You Sow

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

The remark overheard on the trolley was this: "I smacked her good, then I slapped her hands because she threw herself on the floor when she couldn't have what she wanted right the minute she wanted it."

More conversation showed the child to be less than 3 years of age. The mother also admitted that she couldn't understand such a defiant disposition on the part of the child. She also admitted that she intended to keep on slapping and whipping and smacking small hands for similar offenses.

It doesn't seem humanly possible that a woman using fairly good English and dressing with apparent good taste could be so utterly ignorant of cause and effect.

If we were to plant onion seeds would we expect sweet-peas to sprout and bloom and beautify the back yard? Of course not. Yet, the mother planting memories of angry violence in that tiny child's mind, expects beautiful words, pleasant obediance, logical reasoning to sprout out of the child's character.

Self-preservation is our strongest race memory, and unusual is the child who won't respond to a slap with one of his own.

Think of your own reactions to violence as I am now thinking of mine. At the counter in a store, if I see that I'm standing in front of an object which some other woman wants to look at closely, I will move over. Or should she say, courteously: "May I get there so I can see that object?" I should most certainly grant her request in a like courteous manner.

But let a woman push, jam, and elbow her way through a crowd and shove me away from that counter and for a moment I see red. There is nothing which will arouse such a defiant, ugly feeling in me as to be pushed. It is possibly an infantile characteristic I have not yet outgrown. But the fact remains, that, if a mother uses violence to get HER way, a child will invariably use those same methods to get HIS.

Remember, WHAT you've planted before you become surprised and shocked at what springs up.

Household Hints

Windows will never steam if a proper amount of circulation of air is in the room.

Cut off the feet of your discarded hosiery and use the tops for dust cloths. They leave no lint.

For a fine dish of chocolate fudge, instead of nuts, stir in, when it begins to cream, as much as it will take of some flaked ready-to-eat breakfast food.

A sweet sandwich for the kiddie's lunch box is made by spreading one slice of bread with jelly and the other slice with peanut butter.

Failure to iron laundry completely dry is responsible for easily greased garments, which look unsightly usually after only a single wearing. It is best not to dampen the clothes so thoroughly that it will be difficult to iron them dry.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Scientists War on Rare Ailments

In 1865 Addison published the first report of an ailment now known as "Addison's disease."

Dr. Copeland

This condition is extremely rare. At the Mayo clinic during the past 20 years only 115 cases of this disease have been seen.

The disease is characterized by marked muscular weakness, with attacks of nausea and vomiting. However, the most characteristic sign is the unusual pigmentation of the skin.

This change of color of the skin is usually noticed, first by friends of the patient. The skin may change in color, anywhere from a light yellow to a deep brown, or even black. This discoloration may at first be confined to the face and hands, but ordinarily it spreads all over the body.

When marked weakness is present, the patient should not be permitted to be up and about. Sudden exertion or severe muscular exercise should not be practiced.

Many cases are now successfully treated. Indeed, great advances have been made in the past 10 years regarding diseases previously of mysterious origin, particularly those involving the internal glands.

No definite treatment has as yet been established. The general treatment must include abundant rest, warmth and complete relaxation.

Persons suffering from Addison's disease require complete freedom from work and worry. They must not be permitted stress or strain of any kind. It is quite important to observe this rule as drastic results occur when these simple precautions are overlooked.

The care required for these cases is best obtained in an institution. Cases of Addison's disease are less likely to recover when treated at home. These patients require such scientific care and study as can only be obtained at a hospital.

From the results observed in recent investigations there is great hope that a practical and successful form of treatment may soon be achieved. Let us hope so.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Vanity cases are highly efficient these days. They contain not only powder, rouge and lipstick, but mascara, eyebrow pencil and tweezers. Beauty kits for traveling steal one's money away, they are that enticing. Lovely leather or moire, with full equipment of creams, lotions and the usual beauty props.

Fatigue, sleeplessness, digestive disturbances may cause dark circles under the eyes, or those puffy tissues that are so hateful. Local treatment consists of applications of hot water, followed by cold rinsings, and the laying on of pads of cotton which have been wrung out of witch hazel. The use of foundation creams under the powder is a solacement.

Street skirts are shortening a bit, and the question of reducing over-plump shanks comes up again. Running up and down stairs discourages fat cells, tightens up muscles that have gone saggy. Swimming is an elegant exercise to bring legs to normal measurements. Tennis is worth trying, though it is a bit strenuous for the heavyweights. Massage is effectual if strong arms do the work. It is a slow process.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Then "Chat With Her."

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What should one say in a little note to one's mother-in-law that will show appreciation of a gift received? She lives in a distant city and sent me a beautiful hand-made quilt.

A Reader.

Make your note express as deeply and as articulately as you can your appreciation of this fine thoughtfulness, this good wish to make you happy. Then chat with your mother-in-law, as if you were really talking with her about the beautiful quilt that she made for you. Think of just the loving thought that she put into this, and tell her how much you love her making it for your.

The Hostess- Point of View

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A friend of mine invited me to her wedding. She knows that I am going "steady" with a young man. This girl knows my friend very well. I wonder what to do? My sister also was invited without her friend (even though she is to be married this year). I have heard that she invited some girls and their young men friends, but these girls are much better friends than we are.

Shall I respond to the invitation, including my friend, or should I refuse to go? S. M.

Don't do either one of these things, please. You should not respond to the invitation and include your friend's acceptance, since he was not included in the invitation. And you would be very foolish not to accept the invitation, if you really wish to go. That is, don't "regret" the invitation just because your friend is not invited.

We must always regard such invitations as they are extended to us, and not as we would wish from our point of view. That is, the family of the bride-to-be have definite plans to make, know that they can invite only so many guests. That is for them to decide, and not for us to dictate or suggest to them. So, by all means, take this invitation as it was extended, and go to the wedding.

Send Invitations Separately

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A girl friend and I want to send some of our graduation invitations together, and we want to know if it is proper to have both of our names on the same card, or should we use separate cards?

BENJAMIN.

You, a boy, should not send your invitations with your friend, a girl. You should send your invitations separately, and enclose with each one your visiting card or a plain white card with your name written on it.

The Loudspeaker

—By LOUIS REID—

NEW YORK, July 10.—The Goldman Band now crashes regularly upon the air from its sylvan shelter in Central Park. One of the best and best-known bands in or out of radio.

This organization has become a seasonal tradition similar to that which John Drew once was in the theater. Summer comes, and Edwin Franko Goldman begins his task of scattering Bach and Wagner, Rossini and Sousa, not to mention Goldman, to the four winds.

His own announcer, his voice can be heard crying the musical wares he is about to offer. By the vagueness of his accents he gives the effect of addressing the visible audience before him rather than the microphone. He manages to make himself heard above the hubbub of the park.

* * *

Goldman has long been known as a good program-builder. He changes his pace like a Lefty Grove. He mixes the masters with the melody of today. When he plays for his multitude the difficult and unfamiliar Bach he is canny enough to reach immediately afterward for Rossini and "William Tell." And for encores he goes to his friend Sousa or turns on his own tap of marches.

* * *

If Sousa, grand patriarch of brass bands, is the march king, then Goldman can be called the crown prince. He can write; indeed, has written many good marches. Next to Sousa and possibly Gershwin's "Strike Up the Band," "On the Mall" is one best of the present-day inspirations to parade. Of medium height, his most distinctive feature is his shock of white hair, parted on the side.

* * *

Maestros of the dance will stick pretty closely to the amorous airs of Broadway. Their batons are sympathetic to highbrow jazz. Perhaps, the maestros are waiting for the friendly handclasps of Aylesworth and Paley. Seldom do they visit the rich fields of Rimsky-Korsakoff or the promising land of Stravinsky and Ravel and Grofe and Eastwood Lane.

It's time they did. It would vary the monotony, it would halt the repetition night after night of the same old tunes. And practically all the bands play the same tunes.

Did you know that constipation often brings despondency? Poisons spread through the system. You lack pep. Headaches become frequent. No wonder you have the "blues."

Yet constipation can be overcome by having sufficient roughage in your diet. A pleasant way to obtain this roughage is through eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

You will enjoy this delicious cereal. And how much better for you than taking habit-forming laxatives.

Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN, eaten daily, will relieve and prevent both temporary and recurring constipation.

SUCCESS SOMETIMES may be traced to little things in life . . . like the "X" in Francis X. Bushman's name . . . it so intrigued the booking manager when Bushman applied for a job that Bushman was given a contract and rose to be a great hero of the screen . . . people are still inquisitive about that "X," which really is the initial for his middle name, "Xavier" . . . Bushman no doubt attained his greatest fame as the mighty Messala in "Ben Hur," a role he portrays for KDKA listeners at 9:30 tonight in the first of a blue network series . . . . Jessica Dragonette, charming soprano, on WCAE at 8, has chosen Horlick's "Gypsy Eyes" as one of her solos tonight . . . Jessica plans a vacation in August, "somewhere near the sea" . . . Riggs and Moke, on WCAE at 7:30, and Gus Van, on WCAE at 10:30, are other good bets.

RAIN KEEPS PIRATES IDLE

Sport Comment

By JAMES J. LONG

Hornsby Lauds Miller. Moores Passing Out.
Kremer's Luck Changes. Amazing Boat Speeds.
Hard Blow to Giants. Jones and Golf Gates.

RAJAH TUTORS GROSKLOSS AND JURGES

ONE THING THAT must be said for Rogers Hornsby is that he's always willing to go out of his way to help along a young player by giving him the benefit of his advice and coaching. Early arrivals at Forbes Field saw evidence of that before yesterday's game, when Hornsby, with Jewel Ens lending a hand, held a little school for second sackers around the midway bag. Rogers did not confine his instructions to Bill Jurges, whom he has placed at his own former position in the Cub lineup, but also took Howard Groskloss, brilliant Pirate recruit, into the class.

Rogers Hornsby

The Bruin manager devoted all the time available to coaching the two youngsters in the finer points of second base play, showing them the right way to handle the various details of keystone duty. He paid particular attention to drilling Groskloss and Jurges in pivoting for a double play. That's a trick at which Hornsby has ranked with the most adept in either league, though some of the other most famous second sackers, including Frankie Frisch, are rather weak on it.

THE MAIN DIFFICULTY in the pivot play is to get the ball away accurately for the second out at first base without having the throw interfered with by the runner coming into second. Hornsby solved it by taking a step in toward the pitcher's box after touching second base, and by the time he got through with them yesterday he had Groskloss and Jurges doing it pretty smoothly.

Rogers took occasion to tell his pupils how he had received his own schooling and to pay a tribute to one of the most popular Pirates of two decades ago. "I learned all that I know from one of the greatest players then in baseball," he said. "That man was Jack Miller, former Pirate second baseman, who was playing for the Cardinals when I broke in with that club in 1915. Jack took me in hand, taught me everything he could, and all that I know about baseball, particularly about infield play, I owe to him."

IT WAS REFRESHING to see Remy Kremer go through to the Pirates' sixth win in their last seven games without some sort of bad break or stroke of ill luck developing to deprive him of a deserved victory.

Following his early spring period of ineffectiveness when he lost five of his first seven games, Kremer has been pitching high-grade ball for six weeks, but so steadily have the breaks gone against him that he has yet to win two games in succession this year.

THINGS CONTINUE TO break badly for the Giants, whose victory yesterday was only their seventh in their last 18 games. With Hughey Critz out, Manager McGraw sought to fill the second base hole by grabbing Bill Hunnefield from the Braves by the waiver route, but Hunnefield had hardly donned a New York uniform before he stepped on a baseball and turned an ankle. Hunnefield's return to the lineup on Wednesday was followed yesterday by the most serious mishap of all, when Freddy Lindstrom's services were lost for an indefinite period through a severe injury to his left foot, possibly the fracture of a bone. McGraw has always contended that a club which can be broken up by the loss of any single player cannot be called a champion team, but it isn't easy to figure the Giants getting anywhere without Lindstrom.

Waite Hoyt

WHEN DETROIT ASKED waivers on Waite Hoyt the pitcher was hoping that he would be transferred to Washington, but the A's were the only club to claim him. Now he's glad that things turned out as they did, for he has found a new interest in Philadelphia, in addition to having a fairly healthy prospect of getting a world series cut.

The new interest is that Jimmy Foxx is teaching Hoyt how to hit. The flinger told Foxx he had often wondered where Jimmy got the power for his left-field drives. Foxx proceeded to show him, and after a dozen demonstrations Hoyt began to get the hang of it. Waite is now giving almost as much attention to his hitting as to his pitching, and plans to turn himself into an outfielder when his hurling days are over.

THE OTHER DAY the A's released Outfielder Jim Moore to Newark, and last night the Cubs shipped Outfielder Johnny Moore to Los Angeles in exchange for Vincent Barton. Thus the week has brought two more cuts in the Moore family's representation in the big leagues.

In the spring the Moores outnumbered the players of any other name on the major rosters, but they have been gradually passing out. In addition to the two mentioned above, the Robins dropped Eddie, former Pirate infielder, and Austin, a pitcher; the Giants discarded Joe, an outfielder, and the Senators released Carlos, a flinger. All that remain are Randolph, utility man with the Braves; Wiley, pitcher, with the Red Sox, and Jim, pitcher, with the White Sox.

WHEN GAR WOOD drove a motor boat at the rate of 102.256 miles an hour in Miami last winter, speed dopesters imagined that a record had been set which would stand for a long time. They felt sure that the possible present-day limit had been reached when Kaye Don, of England, set a new world mark of 103.49 miles an hour at Buenos Aires soon afterward with Miss England II. But it appears that they hain't seen anything yet, in view of what the British driver achieved yesterday, as reported in dispatches from Gardone, Italy.

ON LAKE GARDA there, with the same boat he drove in South America, Don turned in the amazing speed of 110.223 miles per hour or almost seven miles faster than his former figures. Two miles a minute may not be beyond the bounds of possibility eventually, at the present rate of advancement.

And when the first big American motor boat race was held on the Hudson River at New York in 1904, the average of 23½ miles per hour made by the winning craft, C. C. Riotte's Standard, was called "astonishing speed." In 27 years the rate has become 87 miles per hour faster.

IN SPITE OF the fact that it lasted through two extra days and required the record-breaking total of 144 holes to determine a winner, the hardest-fought golf tournament in history, the United States open at Inverness in Toledo, was a financial flop compared to other similar tourneys of the last decade.

The receipts did not exceed $25,000, whereas the paid attendance last year, when the open tournament consumed only three days, netted more than $50,000. No doubt the decrease was due partly to the prices fixed by those in charge.

Bobby Jones

IT WAS NOT in keeping with the times to assess the fans $3 per day for the three regular days of the tournament and $4 for the Burke-Von Elm playoff. The officials evidently realized that when it was too late, as they sliced the price to $1 on the afternoon of the fifth day. Another reason for the slump was the fact that Bobby Jones was not among the contenders. In addition to being the greatest golfer of all time Jones has also been the game's most popular figure and strongest drawing card, and the difference between the 1931 receipts and those of previous years demonstrates that, with Bobby missing, a big tournament doesn't carry the same old public appeal as a spectacle. In that connection it is significant that while the gate for the first day of the open tourney totaled only $3,700, a mere exhibition match in which Jones appeared 35 miles from Cleveland on a sweltering day attracted a $4,000 gallery.

AGUA CALIENTE PRO GETS 71 FOR 145

BULLETIN.

MISSISSAUGA GOLF CLUB, TORONTO, July 10.—(AP.)—Walter Hagen added another 68 to his par-shattering round of yesterday in the Canadian Open golf tournament to take the lead among the early finishers of the second round, with a 36-hole total of 136.

MISSISSAUGA GOLF CLUB, TORONTO, July 10.—(AP.)—Leo Diegel, of Agua Caliente, Mexico, who has won the title four times and was runner-up to Tommy Armour last year, carded a 71 today in his second round to take the lead among the early finishers in the Canadian open golf championship with a 36-hole total of 145.

Diegel shelled the first nine for a 34, two under par, but went one over perfect figures coming home.

Walter Hagen, who had a 68 yesterday to tie with Whiffy Cox and Armour for second place behind Percy Alliss, continued his sub-par golf today, scoring a 34 on the out nine.

"The Hair" was frequently in trouble, dubbing no fewer than three iron shots, but he was always there in the emergency with a spectacular recovery and his putting was phenomenal, several 10 and 15-footers dropping for him.

Reports that Henry Cotton, young British professional, would withdraw from the tournament because of an indisposition were dispelled by Cotton himself.

Found in the gallery Cotton said:

"I don't feel exactly fit, but I have no intention of withdrawing while I can swing a club."

He had a 75 for his first round yesterday, eight strokes behind Percy Alliss, the leader.

Diegel drove superbly and his entire game was perfect until the ninth hole where a sliced drive cost him a stroke, but he rounded the turn in 34 with birdies on the first, fourth and fifth holes.

A birdie on the tenth started Diegel home at the same clip, but he suffered a temporary putting lapse, taking a shaky 6 on the twelfth and a 5 on the fifteenth. He finished in par for his 71.

Diegel's card—

Out .....3 4 3 4 4 3 4 4 5—34
In .....2 4 6 5 3 5 4 4 4—37—71

Andy Kay, Toronto golfer who won the Canadian professional crown a few days ago, checked in a few minutes behind Diegel with a 73 for a total of 145 and a temporary tie with Diegel for first place. Kay was around in even par, 72, yesterday.

Auguste Boyer, of France, also turned in a 71 today, but his 79 yesterday put him five strokes behind Diegel and Kay with a half way total of 150.

The hevay rains of this morning forced a cancellation of the game scheduled for this afternoon at Forbes Field between the Pirates and Cubs. In making the announcement of the postponement shortly before noon, the home club officials announced a double-header would be staged tomorrow afternoon. The first contest will start at 2 o'clock.

The first bargain day at the Oakland Orchard will be the signal for a flock of doubleheaders. Dual attractions with the Phillies and Braves are carded for next week. The Quakers and Buccos will tangle in a double scrap on Tuesday, with the Braves listed to meet the home foemen in two games one week from tomorrow.

PLAY IN REDLAND

And to add to the labors of the Buccaneers they must perform in a Cincinnati bargain Sunday. Thus it will be seen that the Ensmen in the next four afternoons must perform in seven engagements. It's a real test of endurance, but the club seems to be in better fettle for such an ordeal than it would have been earlier in the season.

Two star members of the home club, however, are out of whack. Howdy Groskloss, the sensational collegian, whose second-base play has transformed the club into a smooth combination, suffers with a lame right leg.

BUCS WIN, 4-2

Remy Kremer pitched and batted like a champ yesterday as the Pirates trimmed the Cubs, 4 to 2. Kremer has been performing in a splendid manner for weeks, but the "breaks" have been against him, else he would be up among the leaders in victories.

The Frenchman had a tough foeman in Southpaw Bud Teachout, who blanked the Pirates through five rounds, but Pie Traynor and Adam Comorosky came up with two out in the sixth and by merging a single and a double they produced a run that tied the score and the Buccos proceeded to win the game in the succeeding round.

Kremer received whirlwind support from Comorosky, Traynor, Thevenow and Groskloss, the Cubs getting their first run in the fourth on Cuyler's double and Wilson's triple with none out. Kremer put on the screws in the

Nick Altrock

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Boy, that National League race is shaping up prettier than Marlene Dietrich's gambs. The first division is packed together so close they are practically sitting in each other's laps.

The Robins deserve at least two and a half cheers for the way they crept up. You remember the Brooklyn club spent the first six weeks of the season trying to dig a sub-basement under the Cincis, who had a grip on the cellar. Well, now the Robins are mingling among the top branches of the league, and maybe they aren't pecking at worms.

With the Brooklyns, Cubs and Giants snapping at their heels, the Cards had better put on spurs or else change to rubber boots.

SHERIFF TAKES PRIMO'S CAR

ELMIRA, N. Y., July 10.—(AP.)—As Primo Carnera was about to be introduced in the ring here last night, the giant boxer's automobile and the money he was to have received were seized by the sheriff on a writ of attachment secured by Harry H. Hechheimer, attorney, of New York City, who alleges he has not been paid for services to Carnera and his manager, Leon See.

Carnera had nothing to say, but he cut his ring appearance to about a minute, and left on a train for New York City. His manager was not here.

Don Sets World Speed Boat Mark

GARDONE, Riviera, Italy, July 10.—(AP.)—Kaye Don, British sportsman, has boosted the world speedboat record to 110.223 miles per hour.

After three months of unsuccessful assaults on the record of 103.49 miles an hour he set off Buenos Aires this spring, Don piloted his Miss England II over a measured course on Lake Garda yesterday at a rate of 107.878 miles an hour in one direction and at 112.569 miles in the other, the new record being the average between the two.

YAROSZ WINS OVER M'TIERNAN

One of the "long shots" of the local fistic season went over as Ted Yarosz, Monaca youngster, defeated the more highly-touted Buck McTiernan, of Swissvale, in the 10-round main bout at Hickey Park, Millvale, last night, before the largest crowd that ever witnessed a boxing show there. It was Yarosz's forty-fourth professional bout without suffering a defeat.

BERLENBACH VICTOR

LAWTONS, N. Y., July 10. (AP.)—There's a new-made grave on the Cattaraugus Indian Reservation, and somewhere beyond the horizon, the soul of Jimmy W. Phillips, 69 years old, the Flaming Arrow of the lacrosse world, awaits admission to the tepee of the Great Spirit. He died yesterday.

BARR ADVANCES

CHICAGO, July 10.—(AP.)—A torrential rain in mid-afternoon washed out most of yesterday's program in the Illinois state tennis tournament. In the only completed match in men's singles, Doc Barr, of Dallas, Tex., slipped into the semi-finals with a 6-2, 8-6 victory over Ander Newsom, of Wheaton, Ill.

LOCAL GOLFERS LOSE IN STATE AMATEUR

Yarosz Adds McTiernan to Long List of Ring Victims in Spectacular Battle

PARKS, BRAND, M'ILVAIN BEATEN

PHILADELPHIA, July 10.—(AP.)—Competition for the Pennsylvania state amateur golf championship became a closed issue between Philadelphians when all three of Pittsburgh's qualifiers were wiped out yesterday in the first two match rounds at the Aronimink Golf Club.

Greer McIlvain, Oakmont, the defending titleholder, was put out in the opening round by Philip L. Corson, Merion, 3 and 2. In the second round, Fred Brand, Jr., Shannopin, was defeated on the nineteenth hole by Van Buren Stanbery, Pennsylvania Golf Club, and Sam M. Parks, Jr., Highland, lost a 1-up decision to H. Lloyd Beyer, Jr., 17-year-old Aronimink youth.

Brand had been forced to go 19 holes in the first round in defeating Sidney Coltart, 16-year-old Roxborough player, but Parks won his opening match handily from Robert Wright, Paxon Hollow, 6 and 5.

LOSES EXTRA HOLE

A 25-foot putt for a par 4 on the extra hole gave Stanbery his hairline decision over Brand. The match was so close all the way that never more than one hole separated them. Brand covered the first nine in par 36 to be 1 up at the turn, but faltered on the return.

McIlvain contributed to his own defeat in the first round, knocking Corson's ball into the seventh cup for a birdie 3 that sent the Merion player into the lead, never to be headed.

J. Wood Platt, Aronimink, the medalist, had two close calls, winning 1 up each time from Walter Neuman, York, and Dick Allman, Philmont. Max R. Marston, Merion, thrice winner of the state title, scored handily in both his matches.

FOWNES MADE PREXY

In the third round today, Stanbery will play W. B. McCullough, Jr., Huntingdon Valley; Platt meets J. G. Boardman, Ashbourne; Marston opposes Spencer L. Jones, Gulph Mills, and Beyer faces Corson.

James A. Fownes, Oakmont, was elected president of the Pennsylvania Golf Association at the annual meeting. John J. Mitchell, III, Marion, moved up to the vice presidency, and George Flinn, Fittsburgh, was chosen secretary-treasurer.

RELIANCE TRIPS RIECKS, 6-3

Reliance Life found the Rieck-McJunkin nine comparatively easy picking last evening in their big Commercial and Industrial League battle, winning by a 6-3 count.

Edgewood took over Mur, 6-1, and Verona defeated North Bessemer, 7-5, in the Greater Pittsburgh League, while St. Philip's whipped the Methodists, 6-2, in the Crafton Church League.

Lindstrom Out With Broken Ankle Bone

PHILADELPHIA, July 10.—(AP.)—Freddie Lindstrom, rightfielder of the New York Giants, may be lost to his team for a month as the result of an injury received yesterday during the Giants-Phillies game. He broke a bone in his left ankle while sliding into third base in the fifth inning.

Dr. Eugene C. Murphy, attending physician at St. Agnes' Hospital, said he believed Lindstrom would be unable to play before early in August. Before his injury Lindstrom had hit a home run and a single.

Ethan Allen, reserve Giant outfielder, also was injured when hit on the right elbow by a bat during batting pratice. He will have to carry his arm in a sling for a week, physicians said.

KIDS SCRAMBLE FOR BASEBALL AFTER FINAL PUTOUT . . . DAILY SCENE

The fans like to razz the mighty Hack Wilson when he strikes out. And Hack likes to argue with the umpire about it, as per the above photo of the Cubs' star at Forbes Field. Following the final putout comes the scrambling of the youngsters for the ball. Looks as if the big boys have the edge unless the ball hits the ground, resulting in a real battle royal.

RODGERS TO BOX ERICKSON

Jackie Rodgers, local Negro featherweight boxer, who recently came back to knock out Chico Cisneros, Mexican, who had beaten him in Cleveland, is on the warpath. He wants to clean his slate by whipping as many as possible of the fellows who have taken his measure, and, to this end, he has contracted to box Johnny Erickson, of New York, at Hickey Park, Millvale, next Thursday night.

Erickson is the fellow who came here last summer and won a decision over Rodgers and sent him from the ring with a bad eye, which handicaped him for months afterward. Roggers claims Erickson thumbed him at the very start, and he is out for revenge, which he says will take the form of another knockout conquest.

Jackie is to be commended for his gameness in picking on fellows who already have beaten him. The usual procedure among mittmen is to avoid gents who have done things to them in the ring.

For one week from next Thursday, Manager John Hernon and Matchmaker Bill Dummer, of Hickey Park, are planning to stage a return battle between Willie Davies and Jimmy Thomas. Thomas received the decision in their first meeting, some weeks ago.

Between Rounds

The all-star show originally planned for Hickey Park last night and set back by the postponement of the McTiernan-Yarosz show, is out with the exception of one bout, between Ted Ross, of Chicago, and Buddy McArthur, of McKeesport, lightheavies, which will serve as the eight-round semi-final next Thursday night.

Ted Yarosz boxes Marty McHale, of Cleveland, in the main bout of the opening show in the new outdoor arena at Parkersburg, W. Va., next Wednesday night. Willie Davies and Ross Fields, Weirton (W. Va.) southpaw bantamweight, meet at East Liverpool, O., next Tuesday night.

Tony Herrera will be in with an experienced opponent when he meets Johnny Jadlich, of Philadelphia, in the 10-round main bout in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, next Monday night. Jadlich has boxed Benny Bass, the junior welterweight champion; Louis (Kid) Kaplan, former featherweight champion; Honey Boy Finnegan, Joe Glick, Eddie Anderson, Bruce Flowers, Lope Tenorio, Luis Vincentini, Pete Nebo, Tommy Grogan, Billy Wallace, Gaston Le Cadre and King Tut, among others. He has been stopped by Eddie Reed in one round in a big upset of the dope and by Billy Wallace, but in turn has to his credit a seven-round knockout victory over King Tut and also a 10-round decision over the latter.

Bruno Sala, of Donora, and Billy Flanagan, of Braddock, will box the 10-round main bout of a show in the Point Stadium, Johnstown, one week from next Tuesday. In six-round preliminaries, Walter Strapple boxes Eddie Guba, Terry Fagan meets Young Firpo and Carl Cesko tangles with Steve Legedus.

Frankie Goosby boxes Henry Firpo in the 10-round main bout at Erie tonight. Eddie Edelman meets Joe Boler, Harold Leppke engages I. L. Battles, and Eddie Simms clashes with Paul Woroski in six-round preliminaries.

Jim Maloney and Ernie Schaaf battle again in Boston tonight. Schaaf recently knocked out Jim in the first round. Charley Raymond and Georgie Godberg mingle at Canarsie, L. I.

Billy Brent, Whitey Whitworth's Negro middleweight, is in good shape and ready to take on any local 155-160 pounders.

Eddie Brannon, local Negro lightweight boxes Mickey Duris in a 10-round bout at Johnstown, August 27.

Tom Hanson and Harry Collins, heavyweights, will box the main bout of a show under the auspices of the Victorious A. C., of McKees Rocks, in the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C. open-air arena, North Side, Tuesday night.

Midget Wolgast defends his world flyweight title against Ruby Bradley in a 15-rounder at the Coney Island Stadium tonight. The show is being put on at a top price of $2. Gene Buffalo boxes Tommy Murphy and Jack Riley meets Babe Williams at Camden, N. J., while Sid Lampe and Eddie Cool clash at Wilmington, Del.

Fight Results

At Hickey Park, Millvale—Ted Yarosz defeated Buck McTiernan, 10 rounds; Billy Holt defeated Nordi Smith, 8 rounds; Meyer Finger won referee's decision over Eddie Hebner, 6 rounds; Johnny Warner won by a technical knockout over French; Jennings, 3 rounds.

At Brooklyn—Paul Berlenbach knocked out (technical) Jerry Garfield, 3 rounds. Eddie Whalen defeated Jackie Aldare, 10 rounds.

At Newark, N. J.—Roby Goldstein knocked out Danny Clooney, 2 rounds; Joe Barbara won by technical knockout over Bobby Hamilton, 6 rounds; Johnny Krieger defeated Cowboy Jack Willis, 8 rounds.

At Wilmington, Del.—Eddie Cool-Sid Lampe bout postponed until tonight, rain.

W. PENN TITLE TILT TODAY

By TOM BIRKS

Sandlot fans probably will wend their way to the Homewood Playgrounds this evening to see Jack Fertig and his Homestead Aces do battle against George Miller's Reliance Life nine. The prize at stake is the first half championship of the West Penn League.

The Aces are leading Reliance by a full game, which means the latter club must beat the Aces to tie matters. If that happens, the clubs will meet on neutral ground in a playoff game. The Aces have to win only one game out of a possible two to cinch the honors.

Miller will have Bill Gormley or Capt. Dutch Spencer on the mound. Fertig, who has been handling his pitching staff to perfection, will show Miller or Conley. Umpire Red Gannon will call the game at 6:30.

Tomorrow evening at the same playground the Detroit Clowns meet Homewood in an exhibition game. In this game Heinie Boll may work out some combinations with the second half race in the City League in view.

At the Lincoln avenue grounds, J. L. Thomas hooks up with Hugo Pasquelli's Linwood nine in an exhibition tilt. Linwood, which recently defeated the Crawfords, are out to stop their rivals from Bloomfield. Bence probably will start against the City Leaguers, although Kennedy may start a new pitcher.

Fans around Monongahela are still celebrating the win of the Keenies over New Eagle Indians in the first half of the Monongahela League. Barney Givens who handled the championship tilt, says Monongahela has one of the smoothest-working clubs he has watched in many seasons.

In the Minor League this evening, Jednota goes to Woodland to meet the Triangles. Three games will be played in the Greater Pittsburgh League. Fintex goes to West Penn playgrounds to meet Immaculate Heart, Edgewood travels to West Field to meet Jenkins, and North Bessemer makes the trip to Whitaker.

BASEBALL PLAYER DIES

William Thomas, 23, well-known sandlot baseball player, died yesterday at his home 1919 Arlington avenue. Thomas was one of the organizers and for several years manager of the Mt. Lebanon Orioles.

MOTHER TRAILS DAUGHTER IN GOLF FINAL

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., July 10.—(AP.)—A fierce struggle for the women's championship in West Virginia amateur golf began with the first drive today as Mrs. E. W. Stifel, Wheeling, once more attempted to dethrone her daughter, Miss Fritzie Stifel, as the state's women's titleholder.

Hard luck began its work with the first drive, too, Mrs. Stifel shot erratically and was forced to take a 7 on the par four first. Her daughter took a 5, pulling up sharply, however, the mother scored a par 3 on the second, and a 5 on the par 4 third, halving the holes with her daughter, and leaving the defending champion 1 up as they started on the fourth.

Miss Stifel picked up another hole as they started the next three. Shooting more accurately than her mother, she scored a par 4 on the fourth, as against her mother's 5. They halved the next two in 5s, one over par.

Miss Stifel's lead was cut to 1 up as she and her mother rounded the turn. They halved the par 4 seventh in 5s and the par 4 eighth in even figures. On the ninth, however, Miss Stifel ran into difficulties making the green and her mother won the hole with a par 4, while the daughter ran one over. The cards:

MONACA YOUTH GIVEN OVATION AT FINISH

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

Buck McTiernan, of Swissvale, for more than a year the leading middleweight boxer in these parts, saw his stock slump sadly last night before the largest crowd that ever witnessed a mitt show in the Hickey Park arena, Millvale, when he bowed to Young Ted Yarosz, of Monaca, in a spectacular 10-round battle, held over from the preceding week because of rain.

It was Yarosz' forty-fourth professional bout, and he has yet to suffer defeat.

He outboxed and outfought McTiernan in five of the 10 rounds and held his own in another one, carrying three of the sessions, the fifth, ninth and tenth, by wide margins, and finishing up by hitting his more experienced opponent at will with both fists.

The decision of the judges and the referee in Teddy's favor was unanimous and deserved, and he received a wild ovation at the finish.

Only the fact that Yarosz is not a hard hitter, although a busy one, saved McTiernan from a worse defeat.

BUCK'S RIGHTS FAIL

There were no knockdowns, and Yarosz lost the opening round, in which he circled about the ring with McTiernan pressing the attack. The second was even, with McTiernan trying to wing his opponent with rights and missing by wide margins and Teddy scoring a few himself late.

Yarosz became the aggressor in the third round, in which he bounded about in his awkwardly clever manner to outscore Buck at long range and also outroughed him in the clinches.

It began to appear in the fourth round as if McTiernan would settle down and win. He quit throwing rights and concentrated on hooking to the body and head with his left and used the right only inside. He hurt and slowed down Yarosz to win the round handily.

McTiernan continued the hooking attack in the early part of the fifth round, only to see Yarosz come back in the latter stages with a two-fisted barrage that made him hold on and swung the round Ted's way.

The best single punch of the fight, a straight right to the jaw, late in the sixth round, snatched that session for McTiernan after Huntington nosed out Fairmont, 4 to 3, at Huntington; Charleroi won a pair from Altoona, 7-6 and 9-4, at Charleroi, the first tilt going 10 innings, and Charleston bowed to Wheeling, 7-4, at Wheeling.

clinch and Hack the Whacker was left on third.

Phillips opened the seventh with a single and after Thevenow had sacrificed, Kremer drove a pretty double to left to score his catcher and Remy tallied with two out on Grantham's lucky hit to right.

Grosskloss singled with two out in the ninth and Phillips walloped a three-bagger to right center to score the fourth run.

STEADY GROWTH OF MARKETS, GOODS SEEN

Normal Population Increase And New Trade Items Promise U. S. Prosperity

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, July 10. — A concealed long term bull factor in the economic situation is the rate of growth of the population of the world.

In the past this progression has been especially rapid in the United States, and constituted a primary cause of the steady growth factor, which technical economists have dubbed the secular trend. This factor through the years has resulted in a normal average growth in industrial output of 3 per cent a year.

Mr. Rukeyser

The future will not only see an increase in the number of consumers, but also in the items of consumption. Science and invention will continue to find new ways of captivating the buyer. Well financed large companies can afford to wait for the long pull. Meantime, some of the smaller, marginal concerns are being crowded out, with the struggle for existence intensified by depression.

With the dramatic phases of the international financial situation out of the way for a time, the American financial public is more likely to consider the fundamentals of the economic situation.

Business, of course, has been far from reassuring during the backsliding period since the spring peak. Underlying trade statistics measure the depth of the business depression.

RETAIL SALES

On the constructive side, apparently the better feeling in the speculative markets, resulting from the attempted "managed recovery," also had a tonic effect on consumer purchases, which were stimulated during June by heightened advertising and selling zeal by merchants, who featured low prices. This improvement in the sale of consumable goods was also paralled by a rather satisfactory turn in automobile sales, if the General Motors sales figures are at all indicative of the trend in the industry.

Incidentally, like the United States Steel Corporation, the General Motors Corporation has pioneered in making available to the public promptly and fully data showing the course of trade. In making public the monthly sales figures this week, the corporation announced that, instead of holding the figures as in the past, it will make them public immediately, thus heightening their value as business barometers.

Pittsburgh & West Virginia Earnings to Decline

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE DEFERRING OF ACTION on the dividend of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway Company undoubtedly reflected the fact that earnings during the present summer will decline even more sharply than during the earlier months of the year.

The quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share normally would be paid on July 31.

Since June 1 the railroad has been charging interest on its new funded debt against earnings. Previous to that time the interest on these obligations, issued to finance the Connellsville extension, was charged as a capital expense. With the completion of the new line, however, it has been necessary to discontinue this practice.

A sharp decline in traffic will also be reflected in June earnings which will be published within a few weeks. This has been partially due to the low rate of industrial activity prevailing in the Pittsburgh district, but the greatest blow to traffic last month was attributable to the coal strike which shut down most of the mines along the line. Most of these mines have resumed operations this month.

New Bonds Issued

TO PAY FOR ITS 38-mile extension to Connellsville, the road sold $12,000,000 of 4½ per cent bonds. In addition it did short-term financing amounting to nearly $4,000,000. This will make additional interest charges of nearly $60,000 a month. Under normal business conditions new traffic developed on the extension would have taken care of the increased interest charges. Due to the depression the operation of the extension has had little appreciable effect on traffic up to the present time.

For May the Pittsburgh and West Virginia reported a surplus after charges of $73,913 which was equivalent to 24 cents a share on 302,351 shares of capital stock. The deduction of nearly $60,000 of increased fixed charges from this would have left only a small margin of earnings. The decline in traffic in June in addition to the application of heavier charges may result in a loss for the month.

In May, 1930, surplus after charges was $174,537 or 58 cents a share. In the first five months of 1931 surplus was $304,268 or $1 a share compared with $628,467 or $2.08 a share in the corresponding period of 1930.

Loadings Drop

THE EFFECT OF THE COAL strike on the business of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia is indicated by the road's car loadings. In the first two weeks of June 2,541 cars were loaded compared with 4,872 cars in the corresponding period of 1930. This was a decline of 2,331 cars or 47.8 per cent.

The road's earnings may be expected to show a gradual recovery in future months as the traffic possibilities of the Connellsville extension become more fully developed.

Before undertaking the extension of its line the road had an exceptional financial structure. It has no preferred stock. Its only funded debt in addition to the bonds issued for the Connellsville line consists of equipment trust notes which amounted to $2,665,000 at the close of 1930. Each year $436,000 of the equipment trusts mature.

In order to secure its position in the railroad merger struggle the road holds large blocks of both the common and preferred stock of Wheeling and Lake Erie. Its investment in this line amounts to $7,400,000.

In the full year of 1930 the Pittsburgh and West Virginia earned $1,441,064 or $4.76 a share compared with $2,083,348 or $6.89 a share in 1929.

A. & P. TONNAGE SALES UP

Sales of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company for the four-week period ending June 27 were $80,850,700. This compares with $82,921,191 for the same period in 1930, and is a decrease of $2,070,491, or 2.5 per cent.

More goods were sold during the June period in 1931 than in the same period a year ago, as shown in the estimated tonnage figures. June sales, expressed in tons, were 454,268 this year, compared with 392,099 in June, 1930. This is a gain in quantity of merchandise sold of 62,169 tons, or 15.85 per cent.

Average weekly sales in June were $20,212,675, compared with $20,730,298 in 1930, a decrease of $517,623. Average weekly tonnage sales were 113,567, compared with 98,025 in June, 1930, an increase of 15,542.

WARD REDUCES PRICES 10%

CHICAGO, July 10. — Montgomery Ward & Co. announced that their fall and winter general catalog would be mailed within the next few days, carrying price reductions that average more than 10 per cent below the spring and summer catalog.

Referring to low levels of commodities and unusual conditions in the manufacturing field and wholesale markets, George B. Everitt, president of the company, said:

"We are passing these added savings along in the form of reduced prices, which we hope will have some effect in breaking down reluctance of the public to buy more than absolute necessities. During the last half of 1931 we anticipate a substantial increase of unit volume of sales, with perhaps some increases over last fall."

The total edition of the new catalog is estimated to require more than 500 railway cars and about 400,000 mail sacks.

Footwear Output Gains 16% in May

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Production of boots and shoes by 1,193 factories in the United States in May amounted to 28,533,274 pairs, according to the Department of Commerce. This is an increase of 16.4 per cent over May, 1930. Compared with April, last, however, the production shows a decrease of 4.9 per cent.

For the first five months production amounted to 131,759,060 pairs, a decrease of 2.1 per cent from the like period in 1930.

British Woolworth Business Increased

LONDON, July 10.—W. L. Stephenson, chairman and managing director of F. W. Woolworth & Co., Ltd., says current business promises another record year for the company. Sales for the first six months were up 11.64 per cent, compared with the like period in 1930. June sales showed a gain of 18.09 per cent over June, 1930.

Deal on Between Westinghouse, Combustion

NEW YORK, July 10.—Negotiations between Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company and International Combustion Engineering Corporation interests, looking toward absorption of certain properties of the latter by Westinghouse are continuing, although no definite decision as yet has been reached.

Those properties which would be beneficial to Westinghouse include the boiler division of Combustion and probably some of its engine production.

Youngstown Sheet Gets Big Pipe Contract

NEW YORK, July 10. — A contract for more than 200 miles of 26-inch pipe for additions to the present pipe line system extending from the natural gas reserves of the Republic Gas Corporation in the Hugoton field, Southwest Kansas, to Eastern Nebraska and Central Iowa, has been awarded to the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company by the Northern Natural Gas Company.

Stock Exchange Topics

Wall Street Is Giving Much Attention to Earnings Reports

Judging from comments heard in many quarters it is evident that Wall street from now on will be giving most of its attention to the reports of earnings for the first quarter and half year which will be coming out in the next few weeks. Estimates are being awaited with great interest. Those who look more deeply into conditions will be watching for evidence of the many steps which were taken in the past few months to bring down the cost of production. It is pointed out that economies have been effected which should cut expenses materially and this will be reflected in some of the reports to be published. What is of more importance is the fact that the various companies will have the advantages of these lower costs later on also when business should be improving.

The point is being made that stocks are in strong hands. It is contended that the low ratio of borrowings to the value of all stocks listed, which was 2.93 per cent at the end of last month, permits the inference that securities are being held by important interests. It is possible, of course, that some of the longs were taking profits in the strong days early this month.

The silver market is attracting attention, due to reports that London was a buyer of spot metal here recently. It is realized that higher prices for silver would improve conditions in the countries which use the white metal as their monetary unit.

Conservative interests continue to keep clients who are out of the market on the side lines. They favor the use of "stops" to protect what long holdings have been maintained. Few are recommending the purchase of stocks, preferring to wait until the market indicates that it has reached a base for resistance.

The average market operator dislikes inactivity and narrow price movement more than any other elements which the market may develop from time to time. These individuals are little concerned with the actual direction of the price movement, but are inclined to lose patience with a market which hovers in a rut. The effect of yesterday's narrow movement on the speculative nerve was disclosed during the afternoon when several sudden drives were launched against the leaders. Presumably some traders calculated that if the market would not move ahead when given the opportunity during the morning, it might yield. But beyond forcing Steel and American Can temporarily to new lows for the reaction these onslaughts accomplished very little. No important selling was forthcoming and above mentioned stocks lifted slightly off the bottom when pressure lifted.

The speculative fraternity was not a little disappointed by the lack of response on the part of the petroleum stocks to the news of the action of the Governor of Texas in calling a special session of the state Legislature for July 14. Prolific production of crude in flush fields in that state, together with lack of control of the situation has contributed in no small measure to the inability of the petroleum industry to put its house in order. Efforts at conservation in other big fields have been literally knocked "awry" by the wide-open conditions in Texas fields, where in some sections crude is selling as low as 5 to 15 cents a barrel. The specific purpose of the special session of the Legislature will be to enact laws necessary to facilitate the conservation of the state's natural resources, principally, of course, natural gas and crude oil.

Baldwin Locomotive June Bookings Up

PHILADELPHIA, July 10.—Baldwin Locomotive works June bookings amounted to $4,400,000, compared to $2,090,000 in June, 1930. For six months bookings totaled $13,070,000, against $22,910,000 in the like 1930 period. Unfilled orders June 30 totaled $9,960,000.

Texas Rain Relieves Drought Condition

DALLAS, July 10.—Timely rains Wednesday and Thursday ranging from ½ to more than 2 inches partly relieved a drought which was becoming serious in the upper half of Texas. Cotton progress on the whole was reported fair to spotted.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, July 10.—Volume in the Curb Market underwent another shrinkage today and prices reflected the apathy in speculative circles by making scant changes. Turnover in the earlier hours was at the lowest rate since early last month.

NEW YORK, July 10.—(AP.)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

Stocks Rally — Local Market Quiet

STOCKS RALLY AFTER EARLY WEAKNESS

Market Turns Upward on Publication of U. S. Steel Unfilled Tonnage Report

NEW YORK, July 10.—(AP.)—The financial markets continued to drift today, but stocks, while reflecting some uncertainty, failed to indicate uneasiness.

Wall street still watched intently the efforts of the head of the Richsbank to raise a large long-term credit, but did not in the main feel that any difficulties would be encountered in taking care of German credit requirements.

Stocks had a sold-out appearance. After a downward drift during the morning, short covering on publication of U. S. Steel's unfilled tonnage report prompted a general rally, and several prominent issues soon registered gains of a point or more. Early losses of around 2 points in U. S. and Bethlehem Steels were recovered.

The shrinkage of 141,129 tons in forward business reported by U. S. Steel for the month of June was, perhaps, a little larger than expected, but a substantial decline had been generally anticipated. Maintenance of the $7 annual dividend rate at the quarterly meeting on July 28 is generally, if none too confidently, expected in Wall street, although operating income for the quarter is believed to have been virtually nil. Bethlehem declined somewhat more substantially than U. S. during the morning selling, and there is less inclination to look for the maintenance of the current annual dividend rate at the meeting July 30.

While Wall street looks for a renewal of the $100,000,000 international credit to the German Reichsbank, there seems to be no uniformity of opinion among leading bankers as to whether Wall street should help the Reichsbank at this time.

Aside from the steel figures, there was little in domestic news to influence the market. It is notable, however, that monthly statistics are now in some instances making favorable comparisons with last year.

The New York Cotton Exchange Service estimated June cotton consumption this year at 450,000 bales, compared with 405,000 in June last year. Recently published statistics on leather and rubber tires have also made better showings than a year ago, as did June sales by General Motors.

Canadian Wheat Condition Critical

OTTAWA, Ont., July 10.—The condition of the spring wheat crop for all Canada on June 30 is given as 56 per cent of the long time average yield per acre in a crop report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. This compares with 92 per cent at the corresponding time last year.

The condition figures show the crop situation to be the most critical since 1908, the report said. Even the drought year, 1910, showed a condition 50 per cent higher than at the end of June this year.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, July 10.—Influenced by unexpected rallies in Liverpool wheat quotations, grains averaged higher early today, although December wheat touched a new low record. Announcement that France had decreased the quota of foreign wheat allowed to millers was a bearish factor. The Canadian government crop report was construed as bullish. Opening unchanged to ¼ cent higher, wheat held near the initial limits. Corn started ⅛c off to⁴⅛c up and later showed but little change.

The following quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. E. Masten & Co.:

Malvern Startled When Kitty Inquires About Dolly

CHAPTER XIII.

"Yes," I admitted to my sister, "Peter is a fine man, but so is Thad."

"I am not planning your life for you, dear," Cora hastened to assure me.

Peter had exaggerated somewhat when he insisted that I had an awful load on my slim shoulders because it wasn't so much of a burden.

The Mierses had increased my wages twice. I was earning enough to keep us going. We moved from the old apartment that had been our home for so long. We got a smaller one, kitchen, bedroom and living room. Cora had the bedroom for herself and two kiddies. We ate in the living room and at night I slept there. This cut down the rent one-half.

They were mightily nice to me at the Miers establishment, offering all sorts of help, but I had an independent streak, and so long as I didn't actually need money I was glad to refuse.

I either got dresses from Mrs. Miers at wholesale or else materials from her. Cora was a wonderful hand at making dresses, for she had been a designer of dresses before she married.

"If you feel you shouldn't go in the fashion show so soon after your poor Poppa's death, we are willing," Mr. Miers said, "but we counted on you—we need you—it is all work."

CORA GETS JOB

"I see no reason why I shouldn't go into the fashion show for you, Mr. Miers," I told him. "It's nice of you to say that, but, as I have to work, what is the difference?"

So that was settled.

Cora had just made a wonderful little dress for me to work in. She had seen something in a magazine and had improved on it.

"Why should you buy clothes somewhere else?" Mrs. Miers asked when she saw me wearing it. I explained that my sister made it from materials I had bought right there. I saw her talking with her husband about the dress and he examined it. I explained that Cora used to do that work.

A few days later when I got home Cora introduced me to a dear, sweet-faced, gray-haired woman.

"This is Mrs. Harmon, Kitty," Cora said. "She is going to do our little housework here and take care of the babies for me."

I looked at Cora in amazement. Had she gone suddenly daffy with ideas about a maid? Cora seemed to read my thought, for she laughed.

"I'm going to work tomorrow," she said, happily.

"But Cora"—I stopped then, I wouldn't argue before Mrs. Harmon.

When I got her alone I began to cry.

"Do you think I can't take care of you," I sobbed. "If you go to work now you'll break down. You aren't strong yet."

"I'm all well, and I am going to work for Miers Creations, Mrs. Miers came to see me about it yesterday—all on account of that dress I made for you," and Cora named her wages. She was proud and happy. She insisted that it was time she helped and her salary was surprisingly large. She was to get even more if she progressed.

MOLLY QUITS

"I'm going to save and put my boy through college," she assured me.

"You are only 25—you'll be getting married again," I told her.

"Perhaps," was all she said. This surprised me. I was sure she would protest that she would never marry again.

Thad came to see me once a week. He brought flowers and candy and now and then toys for Cora's kiddies. I had not gone into deep mourning. I couldn't very well, in my line of work, but I didn't go out to shows and dances. For six months, at least, I could give up the playing around out of respect to father's memory—the memory of a man who slaved cheerfully in a rut all his days for his loved ones.

Synopsis

To just play around, to have a gay time is Katherine Mason's idea of a girl's chief aim. She is a successful dress model, helping her father support an invalid widowed sister and children. She jilts Peter Thompson who has long loved her, and expects to marry the wealthy and socially prominent Thad Parsons, who is madly in love with her. When her father dies it is Peter who helps them, not Thad, and it is Peter who tells her that she has an awful load on her slim shoulders.

Now Go On

In two more weeks the fashion show would open. I was thrilled over it. My chum, Viola Carson, told me that, while it was rather thrilling, it was also terribly hard work, parading every few hours all through the week.

Molly had become decidedly independent, and one day, in a tiff with good Mrs. Miers, she became suddenly ritzy.

"No one can walk over me—I'm too independent!" she cried.

Mrs. Miers tried to assure her that she wasn't "walking over" her, but Molly was away up on her high horse.

"I don't have to work—and I'm through," she declared.

This was only a few days before the fashion show.

"I should worry, my dear," Mrs. Miers said calmly, and with a sly little wink at me.

"I don't care if you do need me for the fashion show," Molly stormed.

"I don't need you, dearie—fat models are as common as flivvers!"

Molly lost her temper then, called Mrs. Miers a lot of names and yelled for them to keep what salary was coming to her, as she didn't need it. I tried to argue with her, for I had got her the job, but she turned on me rather savagely.

"You're an awful sap to be working, too," she cried, "when you might be playin' around an' have your own car!"

"Be yourself—you're crazy," I scolded.

PROPOSAL DELAYED

"You can't fool me—do you suppose I think your rich sweetie just runs around with you to hold your hand?"

"I don't care what you think," I told her, and walked away.

Now and then Peter would drop in to see how we were, but with both Cora and myself working he soon understood that we didn't need the financial help he had so sincerely offered.

Now and then I went out to dinner with Thad, but not to shows or night clubs, and he assured me that he respected me for it.

"After the six months, dearest," he said, "we will cut loose and have a gay time. A beautiful girl like yourself is made only for gaiety and happiness—and for affording the others something worthwhile to look at."

"He doesn't seem in any hurry to propose," Cora said one night after Thad had dropped in for half an hour's chat after we had dined at a hotel.

"He wouldn't right now, so soon after father's passing," I explained.

I told myself, and I believed it, that when we started out for our gay parties again I would have him proposing in almost no time at all.

Cora was getting along splendidly at her designing work. And then, one night when I came home from a dinner with Thad, I found a Mr. Parker there. Cora introduced me. There was a flush on her cheeks, a light in her eyes, that hinted much. When Mr. Parker, during our talk, told me that he had been a great friend of Dick Daniels, Cora's husband, and had often visited them and dined with them, I began to suspect that he was sweet on Cora.

I was right about it. Cora admitted it.

"Mack," she said, meaning Mr. Parker, "was always honest about it—he never made love to me when Dick was alive, but before both of us he said a hundred times that it was a good thing Dick saw me first or he would have married me."

"And now?" I asked.

"He asked me," sister admitted, "and I am thinking it over."

"Go to it, old dear, if you love him. I can take care of myself you know."

"I know," she answered.

SEES MALVERN

I certainly was thrilled over the decorations, over the great platform with its floor of mirrors and especially over the runway out into the hall where the models would walk to give the spectators a closer view of the gowns—and, incidentally, of the models.

Sister Cora was there in our department, fitting, arranging, helping us change from gown to gown.

On the very first evening Thad was there with Curt and Susie Lawlor, and, of course, the ever-present Arline Sargent was tagging along. It surprised me that Susie Lawlor didn't get wise about her husband and Arline.

Thad was waiting for me after it was over. I was too tired to go anywhere with him, but stopped at his car to chat a moment. Then he made me get in and took me home. He and the Lawlors raved over me. Arline Sargent didn't rave at all.

The third night I spotted Forrest Malvern and a stunning woman in the crowd. He smiled at me and I managed a little nod. Later, when there was a recess and we models mingled with the others during the musical part of the show, Mr. Malvern came over to me.

He introduced me to Mrs. Dutton, his companion.

"You are the queen of the outfit, my dear girl," he said.

The way he said it embarrassed me. The way that Mrs. Dutton looked at me made me feel queer. I tried to change the subject.

"Oh, Mr. Malvern," I said, "whatever became of Dolly Hawkins?"

Forrest Malvern was startled or embarrassed, perhaps both.

(What is Malvern's answer to Kitty's inquiry about Dolly Hawkins? Read tomorrow's absorbing installment).

DAILY SHORT STORY

'Just as You Say'

(All names of characters in this story are fictitious.)

Fishing Trip Results in Unusual Romance

"It's time that you settled down," J. J. King, Sr., said.
"You read that somewhere," replied J. J. King, Jr.
His father frowned with annoyance.
"I'm serious, Jack."
"And how!"

"Look here, son, if you really want to get ahead, now is the chance to come into the concern, but with your predilection for—er—"

"Another 75 cent word, Dad." Jack grinned good-naturedly. His father tried to keep a stern face, although his desire was to grin. Jack was all the world to the old man, and he enjoyed the young man's sense of humor and his general air of cheerfulness. At the same time he was becoming rather anxious about the boy's future.

"Very well, then, Jack—what I'm getting at is this—you are extremely interested in all pretty girls. In a certain measure, pretty girls seem interested in you. That's all right, for a while. But the time has come for you to select one pretty girl, marry her, and confine your interests to this one girl."

"As near as I can figure it out, Dad, you could get all of what's on your mind off your chest with two words—'get married.' Is that it?"

"That's it."

"I've given it a fleeting thought now and then. In fact I meet a great many girls, size them up and wonder how about marrying her—"

"If she would be reckless enough to have you," said King, Sr.

"Quite so."

CHARMING GIRL

"Now there's the Smith Girl—we all like her—she's of a good family—she's fond of you—why not marry the girl? I'll stake you to a nice trip, fix up the Walnut street house for you and you can come into the office with me—it's a big chance."

"Sure, marriage is always a big chance."

Mr. King, Sr., savagely bit off the end of a cigar and lighted it.

"Everything's a chance, only a weakling is afraid to take a chance. Now, look here, go ahead on your vacation trip. Run up to Bar Harbor and play around with Miss Smith, decide to marry her—marry her—see? You're then third vice president of our concern, settled down, happy . . ."

He made a gesture as if everything was settled.

Jack King, Junior, seemed to be thinking. After a while he nodded.

"I'll run along, will drop in at Bar Harbor, run around with Miss Smith and let you know all about it."

"You know the Smith girl mighty well, Jack, known her for years, same as we all have. There's nothing to think over. We all like her, she is pretty, educated, a splendid girl, and you two have been mighty good friends for a long while."

"Check."

"Just as you say, Dad."

Mr. King, the elder, smiled with relief.

"That is a promise, Jack—it is just as I say, you agree. Thanks—run along, have a good vacation, marry the Smith girl and settle down."

"Right-O."

And so Jack King wheeled his car toward the northeast, full of kindly feelings for his father, well aware that the old man was quite right, and having a feeling that this was to be his last bachelor summer.

No more flitting about among the many lovely girls who made life so pleasant and gay for him. Of course he had to settle down. He couldn't play about forever.

With a few stops here and there for some fishing, Jack finally reached Bar Harbor and found a group of his friends.

The Bradbury-Smiths were at their cottage. Connie Smith greeted him gaily, as always. Connie Smith was the young lady whom J. J. King, Sr., believed Jack should marry. There was no reason why he should not have that desire. These Smiths were a splendid family. Connie's people were friends of the Kings, Jack and Connie had been pals around for years.

Connie was always pleasant, always rather quiet, and pretty in a most refined and somewhat delicate style of beauty.

As Jack danced with her he thought that she would grace any man's dinner table, whether he had distinguished guests or dined alone with her. She would grace the breakfast table, for that matter. Yes, Connie was a sweet young lady!

Now and then Jack had to break away from the routine of evening full dress, afternoon blue serge and white flannels, and get out where he could wear a leather jerkin and hip boots and do some trout fishing.

Word came down from Wally Gray that the salmon trout were running up the Allagash in Aroostook County, and when the salmon trout did that they were two and three pounders and full of fight.

Jack loved companionship nearly always, but he liked best to fish solo, or else with some veteran of the dry fly school who knew what it was all about and would never be in the way. Jack drove up alone. He had been up there on a few occasions. This time he stopped at the Edwards farm.

He had time to go out to the river for an hour before dark and his luck was beyond all expectations. He promptly used the farm house telephone to talk with his father, who was also an expert with the trout.

"Thanks for thinking of me, Jack—next season perhaps we can make it. Can't get away now," his father told him, and added, "How about Bar Harbor and the Smith girl?"

"Just up for a few days, Connie is O. K. Same as ever, darn sweet girl."

"Good," said his father.

When Mrs. Edwards came down to get breakfast the next morning at dawn, Jack was in the kitchen having coffee, fried eggs and toast that he had prepared for himself.

The good woman smiled approvingly and remarked that she knew a real fisherman.

Jack was well up the river when the sun flickered through the clouds. It was going to be cloudy and an excellent day for fishing.

By noon Jack had done himself proud. He had about enough for one day and would be half starved by the time he got back. He might even have to stop and broil a couple of his fish. He would try that little pool—

The strike he got left him breathless. That was the largest stream trout he had ever hooked, it was giving him plenty of trouble. Several times he nearly lost it.

OFFERS SUGGESTION

He became so excited that he waded in above his hip boots and didn't realize it.

"Give him the butt—that's no trout—you'll lose him!"

It was a feminine voice, full of eagerness. Jack didn't dare look around.

"What is it—a whale?" he yelled, reluctantly inching out his line.

"Salmon, silly — don't you know when a salmon — LOOK OUT! He'll shake out the fly!"

The fish broke water and it was, indeed a big salmon.

Jack began to worry, he didn't have salmon tackle and he didn't want to lose this one. He fought his best and three times got him in almost near enough to net.

"You can't do it with that line," the girl said. Jack glanced out of the corner of his eye and saw a girl in hip boots. She snatched his net and the next time he got the big fellow in shore the girl waded in to her waist and got the net under him.

They sat on the bank together soaking wet to the waist.

"I wouldn't believe you could do it," the girl said.

"I couldn't, without you. Who would have thought of a salmon here at this season?"

"Landlocked. Look here, Dad's camp is a quarter mile above; come along and get dry and perhaps you are hungry."

They went up and met Mr. Dunwoodie. Jack introduced himself. Mr. Dunwoodie introduced the girl: "My daughter, Josephine."

Mr. Dunwoodie knew Jack's father and all about his business and he listened gravely to the story of the salmon.

"Joe is the best fisherman in these parts," Mr. Dunwoodie said.

There was a telephone in camp. At Mr. Dunwoodie's invitation Jack had his belongings brought up there to stay a few days, fishing.

As for the girl, it was "Joe" and "Jack" all the next day and Jack knew that never before had he seen so much vibrant health, genuine beauty, vivaciousness and all the other charms in any girl.

FATHER SATISFIED

The third day they had to acknowledge that they were in love. They discovered it while sitting on a ledge eating broiled trout, bacon and cold corn bread.

Being true sports they went back and told Mr. Dunwoodie.

"Fishermen know what they want. We'll discuss it back in the city when we get back—but if Joe wants you I can't stop it—and you can't," he said, with a chuckle.

When Jack got home he went straight to his father.

"I'm going to marry the Smith girl," he said, and he showed his father a photograph.

"That's not Connie Smith!"

"No, it's Josephine Smith, stepdaughter of George Dunwoodie, and I'm doing just as you said, I'm going to marry the Smith girl, although to be truthful, I'd have disobeyed you and married her if her name had been Jiggs or Sproggins."

"Let's go over tonight and see George," said King, Senior.

They did.

"Son," King Senior said on the way home, "I would have married her right up there where I met her, I wouldn't have waited."

"We didn't want to wait, that was her stepfather's idea, Dad, but the date is October the first, how about it?"

"Perfect!"

J. J. King, Junior, and J. J. King, Senior, shook hands.

The Coal Conference

"Everyone for Himself, and the Devil Take the Hindmost," Seems Big Operators' Policy.

The hope that Secretary Lamont's conference with coal operators might lead to the speedy adoption of some plan for the rehabilitation of the industry is dampened, if not extinguished, by the discouraging statement issued at the conclusion of the preliminary session.

The presence at the parley of J. D. A. Morrow, president of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, and F. H. Taplin, one of the chief stockholders of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation—operators that did not welcome government intervention in the strike four years ago—had encouraged the belief that they were now willing to co-operate in an unselfish effort to eliminate cut-throat competition, and thus improve their own business and ameliorate the condition of the miners. That belief apparently was without foundation.

So far as the big operators are concerned, the policy seems to be, "Everyone for himself, and the devil take the hindmost." Inasmuch as the public must inevitably suffer from such a policy, it is equivalent to saying, "The public be damned!"

Another Bomb Outrage

Some Good Detectives Are Needed Who Will Bring the Miscreants to Justice.

The home of a McKees Rocks civic leader was blown up with a bomb yesterday.

A Duquesne Heights house was damaged Monday in a similar manner.

There have been many such outrages in Pittsburgh and the vicinity lately.

The perpetrators have not been arrested. The police do not know who they are.

It is a shameful thing and bodes ill when criminals of such a caliber as the bomb exploders are allowed to escape punishment.

The victims of these outrages are usually, but not always, foreigners. They usually refuse to give the police any information that might lead to the arrest of the miscreants. The police accordingly shrug their shoulders and do nothing about it.

That is not the right attitude for the police to take. Even though the victims of the explosions, because of fear, discourage investigation, it is not for the police to treat the outrages as private quarrels that are none of their concern.

On the contrary, if, as is widely believed, blackmailers are preying on thrifty and industrious foreigners, using bombs to terrify them, it is of considerable importance to the whole community that they shall be brought to justice.

Bombs have been extensively used in furtherance of a labor union racket in Chicago and New York. Pittsburgh has had little of that so far, but if bombers continue to go scot free it will be a temptation to the racketeers to operate here.

We need some good detectives to bring the persons responsible for the bomb outrages to book—detectives who will not be discouraged and "lie down on the job" merely because the bombers' victims refuse to talk.

A few first-class and fearless detectives of foreign descent, particularly Italians, probably could be used to advantage.

Deflation's Silver Lining

Reduction of Economic Values Has Ripened Time for Launching of Constructive Plans.

Emotional feeling against business depression, which lays its burdens so unevenly on the public, has interfered with fair-minded appraisal.

As a matter of fact, since the boom, numerous business mistakes and excesses have been corrected.

It is regrettable that business organization is so primitive that adjustments have to be made with so many casualties, but the offsetting benefits should not be overlooked.

The depression has again taught men to recognize the validity of first principles.

Folks again realize that thrift and industry, not mere ticker guessing, are needed to build up a great nation.

In securities, even amateurs have learned to look to assets and earning power, not to mere imaginings about the future, as guides to value.

The worldwide depression, too, has taught the futility of private and governmental conspiracies to hold up commodity prices, irrespective of supply and demand.

As Garet Garrett astutely observes, in considering depression's silver lining, "unreasonable expectations of profit had been capitalized. To support this capitalization, a certain international price structure was necessary. Hence the desperate effort everywhere to protect the price structure—by cartels, by agreements, by international restriction and allotment schemes, by stabilization measures undertaken by governments in favor of certain commodities—and for these purposes also American capital was borrowed."

But, at length, these falsities of inflation have been corrected, if not over-corrected.

Realization of the extent the readjustment has gone is justification for sound optimism concerning longer term economic prospects.

Deflation in the stock market has wrought havoc with a water-logged capitalization of innumerable companies.

Accordingly, it is no longer necessary to seek to bolster commodity prices to artificial levels to sustain such unreasonable capitalizations.

While economic values were tumbling to or below their natural levels, businessmen everywhere were frightened.

But now that prices are down, the time has come for some elation, and for the launching of sound, constructive plans.

The federal government should lead the way with large expenditures raised by a prosperity loan, for essential public works.

The federal reserve system should encourage private industry to emulate the governmental capital expenditures by making credit cheap and abundant.

Then in turn, commercial bankers should encourage able business men to go forward.

It is safe to make forward plans after the event of deflation.

Depression breeds the conditions for returning prosperity, and alert executives should be ready to take advantage of them.

Better business will pave the way for the re-absorption of the millions of jobless who are desperately in need of employment.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, July 10.—Thoughts while strolling: What became of slate roofs? Carlotta Monterey has the blackest hair I ever saw. Those writing twins—Helen Josephy and Mary Margaret McBride. They are calling gigolos "Willie Vanillas." Who remembers cartoons of Bryan with dove of peace eggs in his locks?

Channing Pollock, a Washington (D. C.) boy who made good in the city. Rosita, the "Spanish dancer," born Mary Louis Harnrack, of Waco, Tex. And her dancing husband, Ramon, who dropped studying medicine to entertain in night clubs. Why is ditchwater always considered dull?

Midget cars like darting otters. Charles Morton Bellak, who owns Villa Vallee, and started life as an architect. Many who used to week end at Tuxedo now slip down to Coney for an evening dip. Anyway we have all had lots of fun feeling sorry for ourselves the past year.

Frank Crowninshield seems New York's most popular bachelor. He bears a physical resemblance to Count Boni. This is a fine way for a full grown man to fritter his time away. That venerable Broadway messenger "boy" with a thin white beard—like frosty fuzz on a withered twig.

Paul Block is always in a hurry. The innocent savagery of those dance hall girls. Bright red paint, glittering bracelets and dangling ear-rings. Nothing confuses me like the fluttering tingle of a bicycle bell, approaching from the rear. I immediately go into a dance. Jack Benny knows how to wear a hat.

Everybody loves New York and everybody wants to get away from it. Or is that a platitude? But wasn't it Don Marquis who said the trick of paragraphing was to stroke a platitude until it purrs like an epigram?. A "Button Hospital for Bachelors." Arthur Hammerstein in front of his bankrupt theater.

Wonder if Diamond Jim Brady is conscious of Broadway changes! Morris Aleshire in riding togs. Correspondence school sign: "Learn journalism and you'll thrill millions." Do I seem to be gyping anyone?

My newest vaudeville love is—where is that program?—Fum Kawhata, an engaging Chinese girl with eyes glowing like shower-drenched berries and jet hair in a precise Dutch bob. That was his "flash"—everybody expecting him to perform some feat of legerdermain which he never did. But he had a way of lashing his audience into buying that was a gift. He was reported to be a product of the London slums.

CONQUERING MALARIA

By Archibald Henderson

When D. Ronald Ross, at the age of 24, entered the Indian Medical Service, the mortality among natives from malaria was enormous. Millions were attacked annually with this disease. In certain districts from one-fourth to one-half of the total sickness was caused by malaria. No way of preventing the disease was known. All the doctors could do was to mitigate its effects by the use of quinine. Ross determined to devote his life to the effort of conquering this dread and world-wide disease.

A name that will always stand associated with Ross is that of Sir Patrick Manson, the great authority on tropical diseases. A brilliant Frenchman, Laveran, deserves primary credit in the long chain of research. For he it was who first advanced the theory that mosquitoes were the carriers of malaria germs.

After some years spent in India, and wandering in the east, Ross returned to England without having arrived at any tangible results. During his period of leave, he studied bacteriology, and consulted with Sir Patrick Manson concerning Laveran's suggestive theory.

Over a period of several years, following his return to India, Ross made intensive studies and experiments with certain kinds of knats. But all the results obtained were negative. One morning a collection of mosquitos produced some larvae which hatched into brown mosquitos with three black hairs on their wings. At first his experiments with this new type of mosquito were without result; but he doggedly continued his experiments. Triumph came on August 20, 1897, the anniversary of which Sir Ronald Ross still calls Mosquito Day. The details of the great discovery are thus told by Sir Ronald Ross in his memoirs:

"I had scarcely commenced the search again when I saw a clear and almost perfectly circular outline before me of about 12 microns in diameter. The outline was much too sharp, the cell too small, to be an ordinary stomach cell of a mosquito. I looked a little further. Here was another and another exactly similar cell. I now focused the lens carefully on one of them, and found that it contained granules of some black substances, exactly like the pigment of the parasites of malaria. I counted altogether 12 of these cells in the insect, but was so tired out with the work and had so often been disappointed before that I did not at the moment recognize the value of the observation. After mounting the preparation, I went home and slept for nearly an hour. On waking, my first thought was that the problem was solved, and so it was."

It is historically significant that two discoveries were thus made, simultaneously. The kind of mosquito which carried the malaria germs was discovered, namely the Anopheles. Also it was discovered where the parasite was located inside of the mosquito, namely in or on the gastric wall, its presence there being recognized by the characteristic pigment.

Ross carried on his investigations, with birds and with human beings, and brilliantly verified all the conclusions at which he had arrived. Gen. Gorgas, following the success in checking and in many places eradicating malaria on the Isthmus of Panama, wrote Sir Ronald Ross on March 23, 1914: "It seems to me not extreme, therefore, to say that it was your discovery that has enabled us to build the canal at the Isthmus of Panama."

Text for Today Remember, O Lord, thy tender mercies and thy loving kindnesses; for they have been ever of old.—Psalms, xxv:6.

Earnestness, Dignity and Self-Respect

They Retain Their Value in Modern Days.

MARY, A GOOD QUEEN

England's Queen is always interesting to women, and what interests women interests MEN.

These three pictures of the first lady in Europe are pleasing, because Queen Mary possesses the characteristics that men most admire in women, EARNESTNESS, DIGNITY AND SELF-RESPECT.

Some young women of our day don't suspect it, and many won't believe it, but, nevertheless, while men AMUSE themselves with the light and frivolous, that lack self-respect, their real liking is for a woman that respects herself and demands respect from others—women, and men especially.

Women will study with interest the two upper pictures, showing Queen Mary, full face and profile, wearing a wonderful diamond head ornament and collar of diamonds.

They will be interested in the lower picture, showing the Queen in a different costume, different jewels and ornament for the hair, with a large precious stone in the center, sapphire, ruby or emerald, presumably, a pearl collar and a magnificent double necklace of pearls.

QUEEN MARY, WITH OTHER ORNAMENTS

More important, however, than the beautiful jewels is the excellent taste that Queen Mary shows in everything. She dresses modestly, and commands those that attend her court to dress modestly also.

The wildest young British flapper becomes a respectable member of society when she is dressed in accordance with the Queen's rules for a "drawing room."

Middle age has dignity when it commands the respect that makes life worth while.

The British are to be congratulated on possessing a Queen that sets so good an example, and knows so well how TO BE A QUEEN.
